STOCK MARKET SENTIMENT STIMULATED

DUBLIN

There was little or no improvement in trading on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and, as now so usual, public interest was mostly confined to local securities, which continued to make a firm showing on some small support. Although British Industrials were again practically neglected, the tone was wonderfully good, and prices advised generally harder.

Home Government Funds were mostly buyers, and the Second and Fourth National Loans both advanced 10/-, while 4½ p.c. Land Bonds gained 7/6 at 106⅝. 3¾ p.c. Financial Agreement Loan spurted a point to 101, but 4 p.c. Exchequer Bonds shaded off to 103½. 3½ p.c. War Loan finished firmer at 99⅝, and Cork 4 p.c. 1935 Loan made good headway to 93½. Bank of Ireland fell 1½ points to 242, but Nationals advanced 1/- to 30/-, and Provincial Old rose to 29/-.

Guinness Ord., on quiet buying, rose to 61/-. Great Southern Ord. slumped four points to 4, but the Guaranteed advanced 1½ points to 19. Ranks (Ireland) Ord. and Todd, Burns Ord. both added pence. Ever Ready (Ireland) Ord., Irish Tanners Ord., and Irish Worsted "A" Ord. all inclined higher.

Imperial Chemical Ord. rose to 25/4½, and Imperial Tobaccos changed hands at 88/6. Other leading Industrials were neglected, but advised generally harder from the other side.

OFFICIAL QUOTATIONS

GOVERNMENT FUNDS—5 p.c. Second National Loan (107¼) 107¾; 3½ p.c. Fourth Loan (97) 97¼ ½; do. Deed 97⅝; 4 p.c. Conversion Loan (under £200) (102¼) 102¼; 3¾ p.c. Financial Agreement (100) 101; 4 p.c. ## LONDON

Sentiment on the London Stock Markets yesterday derived considerable stimulus from the trend of the air war, and, following a cheerful start, several groups made good progress, although the increase in actual turnover was by no means of substantial proportions.

The improvement in prices was particularly marked in the Gilt-Edged and British Rail groups, and the latter provided some especially noteworthy gains on balance. Meanwhile Industrials kept well up, with Cement and Brick issues prominent on the great building activity in connection with the construction of surface air raid shelters.

A feature of outstanding interest in other directions was the spurt in Canadian Pacific Preference Stock following the surprise announcement that dividends are to be resumed with an interim payment of 2 per cent. Mines remained subdued, and, apart from further buying of Mexican Eagles on prospects of a big increase in Mexican oil output, the Oil section had little of interest. Gilt-Edged came in for support immediately dealings opened, and the resultant rise in quotations was speeded up later in the day, when dealers had to cope with renewed demand on a brisk and well-distributed scale. Old War Loan was picked out for special attention, and eventually closed strong at 100, whilst Victory Bonds put on ¼ to 110¼. Old Consols Conversion 3½ per cent. and Local Loans were other active features, and gains were also recorded by Funding Fours and War Loan 3 per cent. India Stocks were unable to share in the advance, and there was no material change in prices for Dominion and Colonial issues. The Foreign section was overshadowed by other departments, and the business put through was insufficient to influence values to any appreciable extent.

Brazilians managed to preserve their upward trend, however, and Far-Easterns were well maintained, with Japanese 6 per cent., 1924, supported up to 26, at which level a further gain of ½ was recorded. European had a neglected appearance, and Greek 7 per cent., 1924, gave way sharply to 12¼. British Rails took their cue from Gilt-Edged, and, with operators in a much more confident mood, conditions became progressively firmer as the day wore on. Southern Preferred was in strong demand in later dealings, and finally the Stock was no less than 3 points up at 47½.

Great Western Ordinary and L.M.S. Ordinary also were prominent in the revival, the former adding 1½ to 28¼ and the latter a point to 12. Foreign Rails again showed little of interest.

INDUSTRIALS CHEERFUL

Sentiment in the Industrial market was assisted by the success of R.A.F. fighters over the German raiders. Trading, however, still remained on a limited scale, and the improvements recorded were again of modest proportions. Nevertheless, the tone continued cheerful throughout, and several of the leading equities received a good deal of attention on provincial account, London Bricks were prominent, with an advance of 1s. 6d. to 33s., as a result of the speeding up of building activity in connection with surface air raid shelters in various parts of the country.

An exception to the general trend was provided by Harrods, which were marked down 1s. 3d. to 26s. 3d., following a reduction in the interim dividend from 5 per cent. to 2 per cent. Apart from Cammell Laird, which lost the turn at 5s., Iron, Coal and Steel shares recorded several small gains. Neepsends closed 6d. higher at 18s. 3d., and improvements of 3d. wer shown by Babcocks, Bolsover, John Brown, Guest Keen, Hadfields and Staveleys.

Among Electrical Equipments, Generals rose 9d. to 69s. 6d., and English Electric 3d. to 23s. 9d., while in the Supply section Scottish Power advanced 6d. to 28s. 3d. Aircrafts ruled quietly firm, the only exception being De Havillands, which receded 1s. 3d. to 20s. Of the Motor and Kindred issues, Rolls-Royce strengthened 1/16 to 2 5/16. Breweries were well maintained, with Guinness closing 1s. up to 61s. The Tobacco leaders again showed to advantage. "Imps" rose 1/16 to 4 7/16, and Godfrey Phillips Carreras "A" 1/16 to 4 1/16, and Godfrey Phillips 1/16 to 1¼. "Bats" gained the turn at 3 21/32.

Shipping shares were well supported under the lead of Furness Withy, which advanced 9d. to 15s. 6d. Coast Lines, Elder Dempster Holdings and P. and O. Deferred all improved 6d.

In the Stores group, Marks and Spencer rose 9d. to 34s. 3d. and Woolworths 9d. to 55s. 6d., but Harrods weakened to 26s. 3d. Elsewhere Cable and Wireless Ord. further improved a point to 45; Associated Cements rose 1/16 to 2 11/16; British Portland 1/16 to 2 3/16, Turner and Newall ⅛ to 2 1/16, with Harrisons and Crosfield Deferred 1/16 to 3 1/16. British Match, Boots Drug, British Aluminium, J. and P. Coats, Oxygens, Imperial Chemicals, Sudans all a few Courtaulds, Hudsons Bays and Sudans all a few pence harder. Dunlops were the turn better at 28s. 1½d.

OILS AND RUBBERS

The idleness which has characterised the Oil Share Market for some time was unrelieved yesterday. Transactions in leaders and speculative favourites alike were on a negligible scale. The business done was in only very small lines of shares, and would normally have been without influence on prices. As it was, only a few slight and irregular changes resulted. Mexican Eagles once more provided one of the firmest spots, the shares being in moderate demand, and finishing rather buyers at 4s. 3d. Reviving hopes of forthcoming improvement in the relations between the Mexican Government and the companies whose properties have been expropriated was responsible for the buying of Mexican Eagle shares.

Burmahs also met with little support, and as there were no willing sellers, the price of the £1 units responded to only a small demand. At the close they were rather buyers at 2 3/32, at which a gain of 1/32 was shown.

Shells were inclined to dullness, finishing rather sellers at 1⅛; and Anglo-Iranians remained quiet at 1⅜. Interest was lacking in the Venezuelan group, and prices remained at the overnight's levels, and the only alteration among Trinidad was a trifling shrinkage in Lobitos. Elsewhere Petroleum Developments to 38/6. Elsewhere Lobitos kept firm at 1 7/16, but Anglo-Ecuadorians receded to 14/9.

In view of the situation in the Far East, there was little inclination to lend support to Rubber shares yesterday, but at the same time few operators showed any disposition to reduce commitments, and, therefore, the market was able to maintain a steady undertone. The small turnover produced only a limited number of price movements, and these were all unimportant.

HARDER TENDENCY IN MINES

A somewhat harder tendency was noticeable in most sections of the Mining market yesterday. Such improvements as occurred were largely confined to Kaffirs, where the new gold output record last month was, perhaps, a helpful factor; but, in common with most sections of the "house," sentiment all round was better. A useful number of the Rand dividend payers finished with fractional gains as the result of only a tentative investment inquiry. Indeed, the turnover altogether remained on the same small scale that has been evident in recent weeks.

East Geduld were a good spot at 8¼, a rise of ¼, and Grootvlei finished 1/16 harder at 3¾. Western Reefs enjoyed a good demand among the Far Western Randers, closing 9d. up at 12/6, and West Wits. hardened the turn to 2 1/16. A slight improvement in Anglo-American Corporation at 1 1/16 was about the only quotable change in the Finance List. The rest of the Gold shares continued to attract meagre attention. In West Africans, however, Ashantis enjoyed some inquiry, leaving off 1/32 better at 1 15/16; and Bibiani moved up a few pence to 12/9.

Following the news of the settlement of the strike, the Indians were generally steady, but Nundydroogs, somewhat surprisingly, sagged to 1 3/32. A fall of a few pence to 2/6 in Consolidated Diamonds Ord. was the only quotable change in Diamonds, and comparatively few noteworthy changes were marked in the Base Metal departments. However, Rhodesian Coppers were quietly firm, with small gains in R.S.T. and Roans, although in the Miscellaneous Producers Messinas fell back 6d. to 10/-. Tronoh at 1 31/32 and Southern Malayan at 20/3 were better in a generally steady Tin list, but dull exceptions were Hong Kong at 17/- and Kamunting at 7/9. Burmas went ahead to 7/6, but otherwise the Lead-Zinc issues did not vary.

LONDON MONEY MARKET

The adjustment of the official rates for Swiss francs from 17.70 80 to 17.65 75 provided the most interesting development in yesterday's Money Market. The change was not actually the result of any modification of British official policy, but formed the natural sequel to the alteration on the previous day of the rate between the Swiss franc and American dollar maintained by the Swiss authorities. Some Balkan currencies were affected by the alteration in the level of the Swiss franc, and recorded fractional advances against sterling. The middle rate for Japanese yen, however, was unaltered at 14½d. Lombard Street passed an unexciting session. The abundance of credit, which was so clearly marked on Monday, was maintained, and many holders of surplus balances found difficulty in finding profitable employment for their funds.

The plethora of credit continued to discourage sales of short-dated bills by market houses to the clearing banks, and these institutions, almost all of which were good buyers, failed to secure their full needs. Discount rates were not altered. The demand for silver was less extensive than on the preceding days, but the spot quotations nevertheless remained at the Indian official selling limit of 23½d. per ounce. Forward improved ⅛d. to 22⅞d. per ounce.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Cash and Co., Ltd.—Interim dividend on the Preference Shares at the rate of 5½ per cent. per annum, less tax, and on the Ordinary 2½ per cent. actual, less tax, for the half-year ended July 31st. Last year it was 1½ per cent. on the Ordinary, tax free.

Alfred Dunhill.—Interim dividend of 3 per cent., less tax, on the Ordinary (same).

American Metal—For quarter ended June 30, 1940, net income $536,778, net income for year $3,529,566, regular quarterly dividend of $1.50 per share on 6 p.c. Cumulative Prefd. Stock, and dividend of 25c per share on Common Stock.

Aron Electricity Meter.—No dividend is to be paid in respect of the year to March 31, 1940. For the year to March 31, 1939, there was an interim of 5 per cent. and a final of 10 per cent.

Balljan Tea.—Dividend of 10 per cent., less tax, for the year 1939 (against 5 per cent.).

Bournemouth and Poole Electric Supply.—Interim of 5 per cent., against 6 per cent.

Canadia. Pacific Railway.—Payments on the 4 per cent. Non-cumulative Preference stock resumed with an interim of 2 per cent. In 1937, made in April, 1938, tion was 2 per cent. The last distribution was 2 per cent. For the half-year ended June, 1940, gross earnings expanded $13,577,000 and the net gains was $7,285,000.

D. H. Evans.—Interim of 3½ per cent., against 5 per cent.

Deundi Tea.—Final dividend of 5 per cent., making 10 per cent. for the year 1939 (same).

Eastman Kodak.—Dividend of 1½ per cent. on the Preferred Stock, and 1.50 dollars per share on the Common Stock. As the dividends to be paid in sterling will be calculated at the rate of exchange prevailing on September 30, it will not be possible to despatch warrants until about October 15.

Harrod's, Limited.—Interim dividend of 2 per cent. on the Ord. stock, against 5 per cent. last year.

Illovo Sugar Estates.—Dividend of 6 per cent. actual, less tax, in respect of the year to March 31, 1940 (against 5 per cent.).

Kay and Co. (Engineers).—Dividend of 12½ per cent. on the Ord. shares for the year compared with 15 per cent.

Kuala Muda Rubber Estates—Profit £52,791, against £24,967 in the preceding year. As is already known, the dividend for the year totals 5½ p.c., against 2 p.c. After again providing £12,600 for Debenture interest, £4,000 is set aside for E.P.T. against a provision in the preceding year of £220 for N.D.C. The company is continuing its programme of extending and replanting the estates, and £5,000 (against £3,800) is placed to the replanting reserve. The taxation reserve is credited with £6,000 (against nil), and £7,000 (against nil) is placed to reserve. The carry forward is slightly lower at £3,728.

Pharmaceutical Products — Profit £10,800 (against £17,479), plus £18,320 brought in, making £29,120. Final dividend on 6¼ p.c. Pref. Shares up to March 31. This will leave £20,995 to be carried forward. In previous year 40 p.c. paid on Ordinary.

Port Dickson-Lukut (F.M.S.) Rubber—Profit £14,083, against £6,272. Dividend 1d. per 2/- unit of stock (against nil); forward £12,874 (against £13,260).

Padang Jawa Rubber—Profit £2,177, against net loss of £500. Dividend for year, 2½ p.c. (against nil), forward £1,118, against £1,566 brought in.

Richmond (Surrey) Electric Co.—Interim of 3 p.c., less tax, on the Ord., which compares with 3 p.c. paid at this time last year.

Rhodesia Railways Trust—Dividend of 4 p.c., less tax, for the year. This compares with 5 p.c. tax free last year.

South London Electric.—Interim maintained at 3 per cent.

Upsons, Ltd.—Directors reverting to their usual 5 p.c. interim dividend on the Ord. Shares. Last year the interim was reduced from 5 p.c. to 2½ p.c., but the final was raised from 8 p.c. to 10½ p.c.

& FLATULENCE AFTER MEALS

The reason why you get that burning pain and distressing wind after meals is because your stomach is always too acid. It sours everything you eat. Food simply can't digest and your stomach is tortured in the attempt.

Why endure this mealtime misery when 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets will stop it this very day? They relieve acidity and sweeten a sour stomach at once. The stomach starts digesting your food right away and finishes its work with perfect ease. You feel nothing—no heartburn, no flatulence, not a twinge of your old stomach pain.

If you suffer from acute attacks of gastric pain 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets will stop them in five minutes. Try them today!

Neat flat boxes for the pocket, 6d. and 1/-. Also family sizes, 2/- and 3/6 everywhere.

'MILK OF MAGNESIA' TABLETS

'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips' preparation of magnesia.

In treating this abscess I noticed that you began by using an antiseptic—What exactly does that do?"

An abscess is only one of the many cases in which, before healing can begin, it is essential to destroy the germs. Destruction of germs is the purpose of all antiseptics; but hitherto they have been successful only by destroying the living tissue together with the germs—thus delaying healing.

". . . . yes, so catching of course. But we kept him away from the others, and took thorough antiseptic precautions. We sprayed the rooms with 'Dettol,' washed the bedclothes in 'Dettol' solution—even scrubbed the floors with it—and not one of them got it."

Now a new antiseptic has been produced which is as gentle to human tissue as it is ruthless to germs. It is sold under the brand name 'Dettol'. In spite of the similar substance of germs and living tissue 'Dettol' distinguishes between them—treating one as an enemy, the other as a friend. 'Dettol' is a clear, pleasant-smelling fluid, three times more deadly to germs than pure carbolic acid, yet absolutely non-poisonous.

MR. DE VALERA REPLIES TO AMERICAN CRITICS

THE danger of Eire falling an easy prey to aggression like Denmark, Belgium, the Netherlands and Norway was vigorously discounted by Mr. Eamon de Valera, An Taoiseach, in an exclusive interview accorded to the "Christian Science Monitor."

"Our position is in many ways not comparable to that of those other small neutrals," Mr. de Valera declared to this correspondent. Asked "Why?" Eire's leader was immediately beset with the difficulties confronting the neutral spokesman discussing possible war developments. He consequently resorted to terms such as "If A attacks us B would . . . . " Incidentally, this comes easily to him as a mathematical scholar.

Briefly, his reasons for confidence were:

(1) That the geographical position vis-à-vis the main belligerents presented considerable difficulty for an invasion by any long sea route, and any attempt at land invasion could be made very costly;

(2) the training of the small, well-equipped and mechanised Irish Army has for twenty years naturally been directed in a large measure to the problem of how best to resist invasion;

(3) that, in addition, recent recruiting, Volunteer organisations and coast watching services have greatly strengthened the defences;

(4) that Eire in its resolve to defend its neutrality is united as never before; and

(5) that those who might aid one or other of the belligerents are negligible in numbers.

Finally, as Mr. de Valera expressed it: "If A invades us B would be ready to come to our aid." Less neutrally stated this seems to me to mean that if Germany succeeded in landing troops in Eire, Britain would send immediate aid from large forces waiting along the Ulster border; or, in case of a British invasion, Irish resistance would inevitably attract intervention by Germany.

TO STAY NEUTRAL

So, with confidence in his country's defence and strategical position, with the full support of his people for his neutrality policy, and with the firm conviction that any attempt at British occupation would have the most determined opposition, Mr. de Valera reaffirmed once more to me his resolve to "stay neutral."

I discussed with him certain recent radio and Press comments in Britain and the United States which belittled, even ridiculed, Eire's ability to defend itself, and drew conclusions which are resented here.

With regard to the suggestions in one of the American comments that Britain was showing an exaggerated respect for Irish rights, and should take control of Eire's land and sea defences, Mr. de Valera said that in a war claimed to be for the liberation of occupied territories it was curious to find citizens of a neutral country speaking of exaggerated respect for another neutral's rights and demanding the violation of another neutral's independence.

To a further suggestion, also from the United States, that the policy of neutrality was dictated by extremists his comment simply was to recall the meeting of the Irish Parliament last September, in which the spokesman of every party, the Opposition, the Labour Party, the Independent group, and the Government Party, unanimously approved the declaration of neutrality. The declaration was supported next day by newspapers of every shade of opinion in the country. The Irish Times, whose British sympathies are known, declared that "In all the circumstances it is the only policy the Irish Government could pursue."

RESISTANCE TO ANY INVADER

When I drew his attention to a report that the Irish Army would put up a mere show of force if Britain marched in first, Mr. de Valera said: "That is a dangerous misapprehension." Whoever violated Irish territory would find that there would be no pretence about the resistance the Irish people would put up. Perhaps the best way for an American to understand our situation, he said, would be to consider what he himself would do if an invader entered his country. No matter who the invader was he would resist to the fullest of his strength. So would the Irish people.

I discussed with him the statements so widely made that the German Legation staff in Dublin numbers between 60 and 100, that at least 500 Germans are located around Dublin, and that the River Shannon power scheme is managed by German engineers. Mr. de Valera said the facts were that the German Legation staff number six, which was less than the British or American; that in the whole of Eire there were only some 300 Germans, and that the Shannon scheme engineers had gone home long before the war. He mentioned parenthetically that the last census showed over 22,000 British in Eire.

EIRE'S ARMY

Mr. de Valera seemed genuinely puzzled by the latest Press attitude in the United States, which so often in the past had championed the struggle for Irish independence.

Part of this attitude, he feels, is due to a misapprehension of the extent of the Irish preparations for defence. Eire's population is less than a fortieth of that of the United States; yet Eire's regular defence forces are almost a third of the regular United States Army as authorised by Congress in April, 1938. In this connection it must be remembered also that Eire's territorial area is less than a hundredth part of the United States. The recent recruiting drive for additional forces, he said, has already had a remarkable response. The total at the beginning of this month was over 170,000. This, added to the regular defence forces, means that almost one man in every four of the entire male population between 18 and 64 has enrolled for one or other form of defence. A similar proportion in the United States would be over 10 millions.

WELL EQUIPPED

The Irish Army Command, Mr. de Valera went on, has, of course, kept up with the latest military developments and the new problems they present. The terrain of Eire is peculiarly suited to the general military policy of small mobile columns, and the Army proper is well equipped with modern weapons. Mr. de Valera admitted that they had not in the country all the arms they would like to have for the new forces that had been raised. "That," he said, "is not our fault. Contracts placed for arms abroad have not been filled. We are seeking arms anywhere we can get them; we are ready to pay cash for them. We have sought them even in the United States."

Commenting on the suggestion that the United States might be prepared to send its Fleet to protect Eire's neutrality, Mr. de Valera said that he did not think that the United States would be prepared to do anything of the kind. He did say, however, that an effective international guarantee of neutrality, particularly if the United States were a party to it, would be the best policy for a small country like Ireland. Indeed, he added, that was the policy of the Irish Government back in 1921, when an effort was made to negotiate a just peace with Britain.

Questioned further, he said that by "international" he meant to include Continental Powers as well as Britain.

REMOVAL OF PARTITION

He discussed the question of partition, regretting that it had not yet been settled. "Long before this war broke out," he said, "I stressed the importance of this island being a strategic unit for purposes of defence. Were the partition of our country removed and the Irish people as a whole responsible for the protection of the national territory a position of great defensive strength would have been reached. The mere removal of partition, which is resented in every part of Ireland and by great Irish populations overseas, would have been in itself a source of strength. But partition was allowed to remain, and it is no use denying that it presents a serious danger in the situation as it exists to-day. It creates a division in public opinion in the partitioned area which profoundly weakens the defensive power of that part of Ireland."

Asked if he saw any chance of partition being abolished now, Mr. de Valera said the wisest thing from every point of view would be to get rid of it. The right to maintain Irish neutrality was fundamental to the solution of the problem, but if there were goodwill on all sides a way undoubtedly could be found out of the difficulty. Seven months before this war began he had stated in the Senate that unity could not be purchased at a price which would include taking from the Irish nation the right to decide for itself whether or not it would participate in any war.

LORD CRAIGAVON'S GUEST

Mr. de Valera denied reports that he had met Lord Craigavon since the war. "I met him once in 1921," he said, "to discuss differences between us." A smile came over Mr. de Valera's aquiline face as he referred to the fact that they agreed on nothing.

"I have been his guest twice since then," he added, and his Irish smile broadened—"in jail." This referred to Mr. de Valera's visit to his Northern Ireland constituency in County Down, for which both he and Lord Craigavon had been elected, and to his later visit to the Nationalist City of Derry. On both occasions he was arrested and imprisoned for crossing the border.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

PARISH COUNCILS

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Mrs. McNeill's letter in the Irish Times of 8th inst. re the exclusion of woman from Parish Councils illustrates a remarkable state of affairs in Eire.

We do not know the reason they have been excluded, except that it certainly is the national ideal and the teaching of the Church to exclude women from public or community service. In the national mind woman has no place outside the nursery and the kitchen, teaching the young, nursing the sick and old, and serving God in religious communities. Unfortunately, thus we find thousands of women who do not possess kitchens or nurseries, and who have not received religious vocations, overcrowding the nursing, teaching and commercial callings, and those who have found matrimonial bliss either afraid to show themselves outside their homes for fear of what their neighbours would say or think, or who are so tied up and hobbled, and generally paralysed by the extraordinary complexity of all the new social "classes" which have sprung up in our national community of semi-class, semi-demi-class, and semi-demi-semi social distinctions that we are literally tortured in mind as to who is fit to sit beside whom, or for fear Mrs. A. should have less authority than, perhaps, her humbler but larger-hearted and more capable Mrs. B., and, of course, there must be no fear of "domination by a toff"!

The fact of the matter is that each person thinks too much about his or her position—i.e., puts himself or herself alone, instead of one of the team, to pull a good share of the weight in public life and community needs. In other words, civic spirit and public spirit are only waking, particularly among the women, to whom it is not taught either in the home or the school.

Doubtless, the Parish Priests are very well aware of all these facts and have left women outside the Parish Councils for fear that their meetings might in cases resemble portions of the European battlefields. Otherwise there must be at least a few women in every parish who would be far more suitable for dealing with the household and domestic needs of the poor in time of hardship than the men appointed.

Now is the time to pull together, men and women both, for there are not enough men alone in our little country for what may be coming to us (vide the women of Finland)—marvellous—why should Catholic women be helpless?

We have been taught obedience to the moral law since the days of St. Patrick, but the poor State—God help it!—Yours, etc.,

BARROW DRAINAGE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—As Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Barrow Drainage Ratepayers' Organisation, which represents some 3,000 farmers in the Barrow Drainage District, I beg to draw the attention of your readers to the fact that large tracts of land in the Barrow Valley are marked on the map as being "subject to flooding." Our organisation can prove that this land is still subject to severe flooding many times each year in spite of the Barrow Drainage Scheme, which we farmers understood was to relieve all flooding.

Thousands of acres of floodwater could have been seen lying on the land in November, 1939, December, 1939, January, 1940, and February, 1940. The Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Finance stated in the Dail that the Barrow Drainage Scheme "was not designed to prevent all flooding." I will admit that the floods subside more quickly off our farms than they used to do, and for this slight benefit we have offered to pay a quarter of the drainage charges, which are as high as 7s. per Irish acre. Apart from the utter unfairness of demanding this huge charge on undrained land for the next 35 years, surely the Government must realise that to send the Sheriff to those who are feeding the nation in the present crisis would be a serious blow to the national security.

Our organisation is about to send a quantity of data to the Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for Finance, including many photographs of flooded farms taken during the past year, and we hope our grievances will get the consideration they deserve. Surely, now that the Government themselves admit that our land is still subject to flooding, they will refrain from dealing the unfortunate farmers in the Barrow Valley a "knock-out blow" by insisting on the collection of these charges as they now stand, and which the farmers concerned are quite unable to pay.—Yours, etc.,

R. HIPWELL (Chairman).

"THE BAHAMAS AND IRELAND"

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I read in Saturday's Irish Times, under the heading of "The Bahamas and Ireland," that the great philosopher, Dr. Berkeley, had endeavoured to establish a university in the Bahamas. As a matter of fact, his aim was to found a missionary college rather than a university, not in that colony, but in the Bermudas.

Further, in your issue, it is implied that as soon as the proposed scheme failed he "became Bishop of Cloyne and remained in Ireland." This does not quite accord with the facts. He had already crossed the Atlantic—sailing in 1728 with his wife and some friends—and was in Rhode Island when news of the withdrawal of the financial help promised by the Government reached him. Three years were spent in America before his return to Ireland, and it was not until 1734 that he was raised to the Bishopric.—Yours, etc.,

E. M. F. BRADSHAW.

IRISH HOSPITALITY

HOSPITALITY is second nature to an Irishman. It has even been said that when whiskey was too dear or difficult to obtain he stepped up into the mountains and made some himself, rather than disappoint his guests. But of course that was a long time ago.

Nowadays, when a good Irishman mixes gin and lime for his friends he reaches for his bottle of Rose's Lime Juice. He knows that Rose's is the juice of fresh West Indian limes, grown by Rose's themselves. Rose's is the real thing—that's why the flavour's better than any chemical imitation. And it is said that a glass of Rose's after a sociable evening has a way of rendering the morning-after null and void.

SPECIAL CRIMINAL COURT

"EXISTENCE OF A CONSPIRACY"

CHARGES AGAINST CORK MAN

COUNSEL AND BOMB FACTORY

TIMOTHY COLLINS, boilermaker, Lower road, Cork, pleaded "not guilty" to a series of counts charging him with having in his possession in May last, or under his control, at 7 Coach street, Cork, and at Hansboro' place, Cork, a quantity of hand grenade cases with intent to endanger life; with having the cases with intent to enable another person or persons, by means of such ammunition, to endanger life; and with having the cases without a firearms certificate give rise to a reasonable suspicion that he had not got them in his possession or under his control for a lawful object.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. G. Murnaghan (instructed by Mr. D. O' Donovan, Chief State Solicitor's office) prosecuted, and Mr. Sean MacBride (instructed by Mr. E. Neville) defended.

Mr. McCarthy, in opening the case, said that he would ask the Court to approach the facts as indicating the existence of a conspiracy in Cork City and County full of menace to the safety of the community and its property. The prosecution put forward that case as establishing the fact that no intent other than an intent to endanger life or property could be attributed to the facts of the case. He thought that he was entitled to say that the case was paramount in its importance by reason of the grave potentialities of the existence of a bomb factory in Cork City.

The bomb factory with which they were dealing was, in the main, in a place called Coach street, in a backward portion of Cork City. No. 7 Coach street had been a store, and it had apparently been occupied by a tenant up to the month of February last, and shortly after he left it was let to a person who, judging by the receipts given for the payment of the rent, was described as "M. O'Hea." Whether there was, in fact, an "M. O'Hea" in existence, associated by that authentic name with the particular letting, he (Mr. McCarthy) did not know, and he was not concerned. The only fact that he was concerned with was that the receipts in respect of 7 Coach street were issued to "M. O'Hea," of 36 Capwell road, Cork.

FINDS

On 12th May of this year, Mr. McCarthy continued, Garda officers visited 7 Coach street and found installed there, with the appearance of having been worked, though not worked for any considerable period of time, a motor car engine, with petrol tank and radiator attached. Among other articles found were: one bellows or blast furnace operated by the engine; lengths of piping, two tar barrels of steel, lined with fireclay; 140 hard grenade shells of the Mills pattern, marked "I.R.A.," not loaded; 50 hand grenade shells in casts of the same pattern, and 22 hand grenade shells described as rejects. These articles were made by skilled and efficient workmen in a skilled and efficient manner, indicating the employment of knowledge and great capacity.

Mr. McCarthy went on to detail other articles which, he said, were found, including one pair of black boots, British Army pattern; a Primus oil-stove, a pair of foundry knee-caps, approximately 1 to 1½ hundredweights of plaster of paris, a double-burner oil-stove, a quantity of black slag, different moulds, a quantity of nails, a sack containing dark coloured slag, a quantity of unused candles, a quantity of blasting sand, a pair of dividers, two pairs of men's overalls and 14.9 Ford motor car, registered number IN 2134, without the back seat. One of the pairs of overalls bore the laundry mark "A 117."

"That, so to speak," said Mr. McCarthy, "was the raw material for a very complete factory for the purpose for which it existed. I do not contemplate that the existence of that factory, in so far as No. 7 Coach street, is concerned, will be contested here."

CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

Proceeding, Mr. McCarthy said that the association of the accused man with that factory could only be established by circumstantial evidence. When the Gardai visited the place at 5.30 on Sunday evening there was nobody there; but the association was so strong, so clear and so coercive that there could not be any escape for the accused man from the long insistent, overwhelming line of circumstantial evidence that existed. After the discovery of 12th May in Coach street the Gardai went to a garage in Hansboro' place and found a further quantity of bomb castings similar in every respect to those found in Coach street. There were in all 138 hand grenade cases found in the garage at Hansboro' place and a collection of machinery. The accused man was a boilermaker, having served his time at Inchicore, and was employed in Messrs. Fords as metal finisher and was well paid. The laundry mark of his clothes, as identified by himself, was "A 117," and he had, according to himself, two suits of overalls. One was found at Fords after his arrest bearing that laundry mark and the other was found on May 12 at 7 Coach street bearing the same laundry mark.

Around Christmas week of last year a letting was made of the garage at Hansboro' place to a man—not the accused man—at a rent of 3s. a week. However, on May 15 there was found on the clothes of Collins a receipt for the sum of 3s., dated January 23, 1940, and made out to "M. O'Hea, 36 Capwell road." The renters of these two premises were definitely associated, and Collins, by the possession of the receipt of January 23, was definitely associated with the renter of the premises in Coach street.

In March of this year the owner of a garage and workshop at High street, Crescent, advertised a garage to let, and in reply he got a letter from 36 Capwell road, signed "Michael O'Hea, c/o D. Murphy," requesting full particulars as soon as possible. The address at Capwell road was only an accommodation address and no M. O'Hea lived there. So they had a purely fictitious name operating from an accommodation address in respect of all these premises. It would be deposed to that the letter to which he had just referred was in the handwriting of the accused man.

In the months of January or February the accused bought a 14.9 two-door Ford car, IN—2134, from a doctor, and it was believed to have been the property at one time of a fellow-workman of Collins' in Messrs. Fords. This transfer of ownership was not registered, and no change was ever, in fact, notified to the registration authorities in Cork. This car was the car that was found at 7 Coach street on 12th May. On 15th May a back seat of a car of a type which would have suited that car was found in a bungalow owned and lived in by the accused man, and in which, according to himself, he actually was in on 12th May.

POLICE EVIDENCE

A Guard officer gave evidence of visiting the stores at 7 Coach street on 12th May and of finding there a complete plant for the manufacture of hand grenades. He detailed the various articles found there, including 212 bomb castings, moulding and blasting sand, a suit of dark blue overalls, with the laundry mark "A 117" in red thread. Between the entrance door and a partition there was a motor car, "IN 2134," the back seat of which was missing. In the car he found traces of sand similar to that he had seen in the stores.

He saw the accused man at Ford's factory on May 15th and brought him to the station at Union quay, where he told him he was inquiring about a motor car found in the factory at Coach street. He asked him for an account of his movements and duly cautioned him. Collins then made a voluntarily statement, which he afterwards signed.

In reply to Mr. S. MacBride, the witness said that the statement was mainly in the form of question and answer, and lasted from seven o'clock in the evening till about one the following morning. There was no threat or pressure on the accused man, who, when signing, said that he had made the statement voluntarily.

Mr. MacBride objected to the statement as evidence on the grounds that it was taken at a time when the Guard officer was investigating the discovery of the bomb factory, about which Collins was not informed, and that he was led to believe it was merely in connection with the finding of a motor car.

The objection was overruled.

A MOTOR CAR

In the statement which the witness then read Collins said that he was a metal finisher employed at Ford's factory. About the end of January or beginning of February this year he bought a Ford motor car (14.9 h.p.) from Dr. O'Connell, at the South Infirmary, for £7. The car was complete—the back seat was not missing. Some time later he sold this car for £8 10s. to a man whose name he did not know whom he met at the Round Tower Bar. The man who bought the car was fairly well built, of the farmer type, about 45 years of age, clean shaven. He never saw the man or the car afterwards. In the statement Collins also said that he identified as his a blue striped suit and other articles of clothing, as well as the suit of overalls found at the factory in Coach street.

The witness went on to relate that he was present when a black leather wallet, bearing the initials "T.C.," and articles of clothing were produced to the prisoner. The clothes were handed back to him. The wallet contained a miscellaneous collection of documents and photographs, among them a driving licences in force from October, 1939, to October, 1940, and signed "Timothy J. Collins." Witness also found a receipt dated January 23, 1940, to "M. O'Hea," for the rent of a garage. He told Collins that he was going to question him under the Offences Against the State Act, and explained his position fully to him. He put him a series of questions and took down the questions and answers, but Collins refused to sign.

The witnes stated that on May 17 he found a sack containing 138 hand grenade cases along with some miscellaneous machinery parts at the garage in Hansboro' place. The prisoner agreed on request to give a specimen of his handwriting, and witness produced a document which had been written by Collins at witness's dictation. Witness had in his possession at the time a certain letter and he now handed both this letter and the document written by Collins to the Court.

On being formally charged and cautioned Collins made no statement.

A Garda ballistics' expert gave evidence that there was a complete plant for the manufacture of hand grenade cases found in Coach street. He examined the moulds for making them, and the moulds for making these cases compare with the ordinary grenades?—In my opinion they would be superior even to the Mills' grenade. They were expertly made.

Evidence was given that Collins had no certificate authorising him to possess firearms or ammunition.

Evidence was also given about the letting of the stores at Coach street and the garage at Hansboro' place, and it was stated that they were let to a person named "W. O'Hea," but that the accused man was not that person.

A witness living at 36 Capwell road, Cork, said that no one of the name of O'Hea lived there.

The further hearing was adjourned until to-day.

DUBLIN MYSTERY UNSOLVED

The identity of the dead man who was found on Saturday last in licensed premises, which had been closed for some months, at North King street, Dublin, has not yet been established. The inquest will probably be opened by the Deputy City Coroner (Dr. J. P. Shanley) to-day, when the State Pathologist's report will be received.

DUBLIN CORPORATION

GENERAL PURPOSES COMMITTEE

Councillor Sean Milroy presided at a meeting of the General Purpoaes Committee of the Dublin Corporation, when a sub-committee report was read in connection with the proposals of the Dublin City Constituencies' Council of the Labour Party.

The report suggested that the Corporation should establish reserve stocks of food and fuel, and arrange for relief in the matter of liability for rent of Corporation houses and flats, in provision for emergency conditions.

The Law Agent pointed out that further legislation would be necessary in the matter of relief from rents of Corporation houses and flats. It was decided to approach the Minister in connection with the provision of food and fuel.

A letter was read from Mr. M. J. Walsh, Waterworks, Markets and Public Lighting Section, requesting approval for the undertaking of alterations and renewals of weighbridges at the Cattle Market. The provisions in the current year's estimates falls short of the amount of tenders submitted for this work by £132, which will be required to be provided in next year's estimate.

The request was agreed to.

The City Manager stated that the question of a change of days at the Cattle Market had been raised at the Council meeting. He read a report from Mr. Lynch, Superintendent, suggesting a change in the killing days, but so far nothing had been decided upon.

The City Manager stated that if the present system was to continue at the abattoir it would have to be enlarged at a cost of, roughly, £150,000.

Dr. Russell, Medical Officer of Health, made application for increased capitation rate in respect of patients admitted to Rialto Hospital under the Corporation tuberculosis scheme. It was suggested that the rate should be increased from 28s. to 35s. per week, which would involve an additional gross expenditure of £2,480. The suggestion was agreed to.

AUXILIARY FIREMAN'S THEFT

Warning of severe penalties under the Defence Regulations, for looting offences, was given in the High Court, Edinburgh, yesterday when a sentence of six months' imprisonment was passed on an auxiliary fireman for stealing a bag containing 100 pounds of sugar from a damaged store in the south-west of Scotland.

Robert Andrew, aged 62, a married man with a family of six, committed the theft when he was on duty as a full-time auxiliary fireman, after an incendiary bomb had been dropped.

In passing sentence, Lord Normand, the Lord President, said that Andrew was guilty of great disloyalty to the country and to his fellow citizens. The Legislature had provided for this offence the most severe penalties known to the law.

STAMPS OF THE WEEK

The Mint Stamp Company, 74 Grafton street, Dublin, have sent us the following new stamps for illustration:—Ascension Islands: 1940. Portrait of H.M. King George VI. 1d, ochre and black, 3d. grey and black, 4d. blue and black (set of three, 1s. 2d.). Johore: 12c. blue (6½d. each).

MUSICAL COMEDY SEASON FOR DUBLIN

A three months' season of musical comedy is to open in Dublin at the Olympia Theatre towards the end of next month; it will be directed by a well-known impresario and is to employ Irish talent. The season will continue until the pantomime opens at Christmas and the company will then go on tour to Cork, Limerick and Belfast before returning to Dublin.

Amateur operatic societies and similar organisations will be combed for talent, and the director considers that there are sufficient Irish artists of quality available to provide a good season. Performances will be given twice nightly and the programme is to include musical comedies which already have proved their popularity, such as "The Desert Song," "Maid of the Mountains," "No, No, Nanette," and "The Merry Widow."

BRAY URBAN COUNCIL AFFAIRS

POSITION OF POOR RATE COLLECTOR

The Minister for Local Government has notified the Bray Urban Council that he is not prepared to sanction the appointment of a separate poor rate collector for the township. In other urban districts, larger than Bray, the duties of collector were carried out by one man, he said. There were no special circumstances in Bray necessitating two appointments. When the town rate collector was appointed in 1937 it was contemplated that on the retirement of the poor rate collector the collection of both town and poor rates would be entrusted to one collector. This should now be done.

In previous correspondence the Minister stated that the unsatisfactory financial position had been brought to the notice of the Council, and the opportunity which had now arisen should be availed of to effect a substantial economy in the cost of collection.

The Council, by a majority, decided to obtain the opinion of their solicitor as to the justification or otherwise of the decision to appoint a separate individual as poor rate collector.

When this matter was considered by the Bray Trades and Labour Council, with Mr. George Doyle, U.D.C., chairman, presiding, a resolution was adopted unanimously, in which a strong protest was made against the dictatorial attitude of the Minister in forcing the Bray Urban Council to consolidate the two positions of town rate and poor rate collector in defiance of the expressed wishes of the Council. There was ample room, it stated, for a full-time position, with adequate remuneration, when the warrant was nearly half it present size.

The Minister has approved of a superannuation allowance of £176 18s. 6d. per annum to Mr. John Kenny, who has retired from the position of poor rate collector.

BRAY SEA WALL AND HARBOUR

The state of the sea wall and harbour of Bray had occasioned great surprise to an engineer of the Board of Works when he had inspected them recently, Mr. E. M. Murphy, B.E., Surveyor, stated in his report to the Bray Urban Council. They had inspected them for some hours, and made a very thorough examination, both from the sea and the land, and they saw them under excellent conditions.

The beach, Mr. Murphy said, had gone down lower at the northern steps than it was ever before, and he was asked to prepare plans and specifications of the proposed improvements.

The Council had applied for a Government grant to carry out the necessary works.

NO ILLUMINATIONS ON BRAY SEA FRONT

There will be no public illuminations on Bray sea front this season. When the proposal to have strip lighting on the sea wall was submitted to the Minister for Defence, he intimated that he did not see any objection to it, provided that the lights were cowled. It has been decided not to have the lighting this season.

From the Depths

ONE of the mysteries of the present war is the attitude of post-Bordeaux France. Since Marshal Pétain approached the German High Command for an armistice trustworthy news from the former French Republic has been impossible to obtain. All that is known for certain is that France has been divided into two parts—one which includes Paris, occupied by the Germans, and the other under the authority of the Government which has been established at Clermont Ferrand. The French Press, which once reflected every shade of political opinion in the Republic, virtually has ceased to exist. One or two of the former Paris journals continue to appear outside the capital; but they seem to have lost their individuality completely, and their pages are filled almost exclusively with official reports and Government communications of various kinds. The Third Republic has disappeared. President Lebrun has transferred his authority to the person of Marshal Pétain, whose constitutional functions at the moment are obscure. Most of the men who were identified with French policy immediately before, and during, the war are being arraigned before a special court, which, in certain circumstances, may condemn them to death; and the French people, in occupied and unoccupied territory alike, must be in a condition of utter confusion. Yesterday Marshal Pétain, who is eighty-four years of age, broadcast to the French nation. Much abuse has been heaped upon the head of this distinguished old soldier, who was called upon to take control of affairs in France's hour of dire need. At his advanced age it would be unreasonable to expect resilience of mind, particularly since he is dealing with Germans little more than half his age; and there is no doubt that he is a genuine patriot who is doing his best for his country, according to his lights. He is a Conservative of the Conservatives, who believes sincerely that France can be saved by a return to her ancient ways—ways that existed before the Revolution, and that the French equivalent of Mrs. Partington can stem the tide of political progress with a broom; but he is essentially an honest man, and, in despite of his detractors, he is a good and sincere Frenchman. In all the circumstances, Marshal Pétain's broadcast last evening was pathetic. Germany, he declared, had agreed in principle to the removal of the French Government from Clermont Ferrand to Versailles, but she "would not give final authority until certain conditions should have been fulfilled." What these conditions are the Marshal did not say. France is a defeated nation, waiting to learn her fate at the hands of her conquerors; and, in the nature of things, Marshal Pétain cannot take any decision without the sanction of Berlin.

It was only natural that Marshal Pétain should have surrounded himself with colleagues who have strongly Conservative leanings, in the hope that the German Government might be willing to deal more leniently with such an Administration than with a more democratic Cabinet, and those who accuse him of treachery to the principles of the French Revolution ought to try to place themselves in the appallingly difficult position in which this old soldier finds himself to-day. Frenchmen, he declares, must concentrate in the future upon the encouragement of family life and educational reform. Alcoholism, "which was destroying our race," must be suppressed; and the Administration, "into which too many Frenchmen recently insinuated themselves," must be reconstructed from top to bottom. Marshal Pétain attributed France's misfortunes to "laziness, incompetence, and even systematic sabotage with a view to the promotion of social disorder and international revolution." He believes that these evils can be eradicated by his Government, and announces that "inefficiency and treachery" will be punished. Every civilised man and woman must sympathise deeply with the French people in their present plight. Disaster overtook them unawares. They have not yet had time to realise the full extent of their military defeat, and they have been stunned by the breach of diplomatic relations with their British allies. More than half their country is occupied by their traditional enemies; the other half is exposed to hourly danger. Marshal Pétain and his Ministers are doing everything in their power to save something from the wreck of the Third Republic. In their anxiety to do their best for their people, they may be guilty of mistakes which may pain, or even irritate, those friends of France who have not yet experienced the horrors of invasion; but it must be remembered that they have the responsibility, and that ultimately they must answer for all their sins, both of commission and omission, to the French people. The suggestion that these men are "pro-German" is simply childish. They may be reactionary in many respects, but first and foremost they are Frenchmen. They have been entrusted with the government of France at a moment when she has suffered the greatest military defeat of all time. The presence of German troops in Paris is the governing factor in a situation that is steeped in tragedy.

An Ambitious Plan

"You cannot beat Germany with 800,000 unemployed," said Mr. Leslie Hore-Belisha to an audience at Devonport this week. Somewhat similar is the argument that underlies the grandiose scheme of natural and industrial development which Mr. J. Brown, Unionist member of the Northern Parliament for South Down, will submit in the form of a motion within the near future. Mr. Brown asks Stormont to express its dissatisfaction at the existence of more than 71,000 unemployed people in the six counties—for all the reduction that might have been expected in those figures as a result of the war, unemployment remains a formidable problem there. The number of enlistments in the fighting services has not been conspicuously high, and the small quantity of "war contracts" which has come the way of the six counties has provoked anger in the House of Commons more than once, Mr. Brown thinks that the occasion demands a strong effort, and submits a programme which would be ambitious even in the piping times of peace. Pride of place is taken by a scheme of land reclamation, the labour for which will be financed by grants to all owners and occupiers of land. Next comes an afforestation scheme, described as "huge." In the third place, Northern Ireland is to take a leaf out of the book both of Great Britain and of the twenty-six counties; factories are to be established for the manufacture of beet sugar, and the necessary crops are to be encouraged. This will be financed automatically by a subsidy from the British Exchequer. As well as the sugar factories, Mr. Brown contemplates potato, flour and flax factories, all similarly financed under the State. The present acreage under food and flax is to be trebled, while the mineral, granite, peat, fishing and other natural resources of Northern Ireland are to be developed. The surplus of £120,000 for which Mr. Andrews's latest Budget provides, after payment of the North's £6,000,000 Imperial contribution—reinforced, if necessary, by later surpluses—can be devoted to the erection of munition and aircraft factories, together with at least one "war-work training centre." Cattle ought to be killed before they leave Northern Ireland, rather than after arrival in Great Britain, in order that their hides may be tanned at home to furnish the raw material for boot and shoe factories. Next the plan requires that Great Britain and the North shall combine to subsidise exports of linen; that the Revaluation Act shall be revised so as to lighten the burden on industry and commerce, and that assistance shall be provided for fresh enterprises under the New Industries (Development) Act. Finally, road and harbour grants must be restored. This is, indeed an elaborate plan. If brought into effect, it would do more for Northern agriculture and industry than has been done for the industry and agriculture of the whole of Ireland during the past twenty years—if not during the past fifty. Boldness is a virtue, and we admire the member for South Down because he has the courage to think in large terms. We readily can imagine, however, the chilling, and slightly supercilious, retort which his proposals will provoke from Viscount Craigavon's Ministers. They may be unable to offer an effective rejoinder to his major thesis—those 71,000 unemployed cannot be explained away with comfort—but they will have a battery of charmingly parliamentary phrases to show why even the least of the member's proposals is impracticable.

Peat Fuel

The war in Europe, which virtually isolates this country from all outside sources of supply, is bound to cause considerable hardship—hardship which will tend to increase, rather than to diminish, as time advances. Certain imports, even already, have become both scarce and expensive. Some commodities which in normal times were available in unlimited quantities may cease to be available at all, and others, we may expect, will go up to such a price as to be beyond the reach of average persons and their means. Every cloud, however, has a silver lining—and it is a dark enough cloud which hangs over Ireland at the present time. The silver lining in this case is that we will be forced for the first time in our history to take full stock of our own resources and to make the most of them in the difficult days that lie ahead. Next winter, without a doubt, there will be a considerable shortage of fuel; for coal will be available no longer in anything like the former quantities. There is the consolation, nevertheless, that at our very doorsteps we have an alternative supply of an alternative fuel which is well-nigh inexhaustible. On Monday, at the Dublin Rotary Club, Mr. James E. G. Gallagher, B.Sc., read a paper on "Peat: Its Production, Uses and Possibilities," in which he showed that in the humble sod of turf there is not only fuel for our fires, but a valuable source of gas and a whole variety of by-products, including sulphate of ammonia, so largely used in the manufacture of fertilisers; paraffin tars, acetic acid, a form of industrial alcohol, and certain fibres out of which the ingenious Germans have been able to make paper, cloth, and even "silk" stockings. For the present we are interested more in its qualities as a fuel, and, while we agree with Mr Gallagher's remarks about the by-products, we feel that he is being rather over-enthusiastic. Peat varies in composition as much as coal, and to say that peat in Germany has proved to be a rich source of industrial alcohol or that in Russia it provides an excellent quality of cardboard, does not mean that the same argument holds good for Irish peat. It is true, as Mr. Gallagher says, that a whole variety of by-products can be obtained; but experiments here have shown that few, if any, of them could be produced in such quantities as would justify in any degree the expense of the undertaking. The content of sulphate of ammonia in Irish peat, for instance, is economically negligible, and of the materials from which other countries have produced paper and cardboard there is less than one per cent.—calculated in terms of dry weight—in our own bogs. The only real value of peat, so far as we are concerned, is as fuel, either for domestic or industrial purposes, or, as the Electricity Supply Board proposes to use it in the near future, converted into gas. This country, as Mr. Gallagher states, can make itself largely independent of all outside supplies of coal. In the bogs of the twenty-six counties there is the equivalent of about 150,000,000 tons, and, with that asset properly developed, we should have enough fuel to last us for fifty years. We will be wise, however, if we do not count too seriously on the value of by-products.

FUNCTIONS OF PARISH COUNCILS

COMING DEBATE IN SENATE

By Our Political Correspondent.

AN opportunity for the clarification of the situation in regard to the setting up of parish councils will be afforded by the debate which will take place in the Senate when that House meets again on 28th August.

From recent publications in the Irish Times and elsewhere, it is obvious that a certain amount of confusion exists, not only in regard to the functions of the proposed councils, but as to the manner of choosing the personnel, the period of their tenure of office, the powers they are to exercise, and the very essential matter of finance.

It will be recalled that in speeches made by the Minister for Local Government, Mr. P. J. Ruttledge, at Bray and Blackrock, he made it clear that the intention of his Department was that the proposed councils were intended purely for emergency purposes, that they were not intended to be permanent, and that no Government money would be available for them. Their functions would be altogether concerned with the provision of food and fuel for the area in which they operated, and, in the event of such areas being separated from the Central Government, they should act in conjunction with the regional and county commissioners. It is apparent, from the discussions which have taken place in certain districts, that a diversity of view is entertained, and that the Minister's outline has not been carefully studied.

The debate in the Senate at the coming meeting will be based on motions which have been handed in by several Senators.

Senator Sir John Keane will move:—"That this House would welcome a statement from the Government regarding the constitutional status, the method of election, and the powers of parish councils."

Senators Professor Tierney, M. O'Dwyer, William Cummins, and J. J. Counihan will sponsor the following:—

"That this House requests the Government to introduce legislation for the purpose of setting up parish councils in the rural areas on a permanent basis; such legislation to provide that the councils shall be elected by the heads of families in each area, and that they shall form an integral part of the Local Government system of the country."

DUN LAOGHAIRE PIER CONCERTS

On Sunday afternoon last Billy Gerrard and his band gave their fifth concert of the series at the East Pier, Dun Laoghaire.

The vocalists were Phil Gibbons and little Maura Carney, who also provided some pleasant dance routines. Eddie Quinn, the band's guitarist, drew thunderous applause for his rendering of "The Singing Hills" and "Mexicali Rose" on the electric guitar, with Phil Gibbons taking the vocals.

The general performance of the band, ably directed by Billy Gerrard, reached a high degree, and the numbers selected showed a keen discernment for the public taste. Douglas O'Reilly's trumpet solo, "Kashmir's Love Song," and Jimmie Burke's "Czardus" on the violin were executed with verve and polish.

The popularity of these concerts was demonstrated by the huge attendance, and patrons of the East Pier will be pleased to know that the Billy Gerrard concerts will be continued for the next few Sundays.

HOWTH AND THE DUBLIN CORPORATION

REPRESENTATION ISSUE

The representation of Howth district in the Dublin Corporation after absorption into the Greater Dublin Area was referred to last night at the meeting of the Howth Urban Council. A petition for "adequate and just representation" of the Howth district on the Dublin Municipal Council having been referred to,

Mr. R. J. Burke said that at the last meeting of the Dublin Corporation this matter was discussed, and it was reported that their neighbour and friend, Deputy E. Cooney, had very effectively taken up the cudgels on behalf of Howth, and had pointed out that Howth, if properly developed, would be a great asset to the city.

Mr. Burke proposed that Howth Council's appreciation of Mr. Cooney's action be put on record, and that the Town Clerk, Mr. McKenna, send the deputy a letter expressing the Howth Council's thanks.

The attention of the Minister for Local Government had been called already to the fact that there was no definite provision in the Local Government (Dublin) (Amendment) Act, 1940, for the representation of the people of the urban district of Howth on the Dublin Municipal Council.

The motion was adopted.

Mrs. F. E. Jermyn, vice-chairman, presided.

TRANSYLVANIA TALKS THIS WEEK

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BUDAPEST, Tuesday.

LONDON LETTER

BRITISH SYMPATHY WITH AUSTRALIA

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
TUESDAY NIGHT.

DEEP sympathy with Australia was expressed in all quarters here to-day in the heavy blow she has sustained by a terrible air disaster in which three Cabinet Ministers and other important members of the Government were killed. Australia was expecting a general election in a month's time, and it is thought that it will be necessary to postpone any such move, and possibly to abandon it. It was pointed out here that the accident shows the inadvisability of so many important people travelling together in the same aeroplane, since accidents are always possible. It might have been supposed that prudence would have dictated the use of more than one aeroplane when several Cabinet Ministers were involved.

Tribute to Premier

Mr. Winston Churchill has been paid a supreme tribute by Liberalism, as a portrait which for years was lying in the cellar of the National Liberal Club, now occupies a position of honour in the smoking-room, with a light placed above it, so that the features may be illuminated. Years ago, when the Liberals were displeased with Mr. Churchill and Mr Lloyd George, they took their portraits down from the walls of the Club and consigned them to the cellars, where they lay almost forgotten. Now, after a process of cleaning, has come the tribute of re-hanging, and the portrait of Mr. Churchill, accompanied by that of Mr. Lloyd George, have been placed on either side of a big portrait of Mr. Gladstone. The portraits of Lord Oxford and Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman have disappeared.

The Czech Parliament

Dr Benes, the Czech President, and Madame Benes, were the guests of the King and Queen at a luncheon at Buckingham Palace to-day. Mr. and Mrs. Churchill also were present. When the Czechoslovakian Parliament meets in London for the first time shortly, some of its members here may not be able to attend, since there are somewhat curious diplomatic complications in the way. These former Parliamentary representatives, six in number, German in race and language, and Social Democrats, do not like been called Sudetens, maintaining they are the freely-elected representatives of German-speaking Bohemia. These men, five in number, with one woman, represented Sudetenland before Hitler occupied Czechovakia and the Munich agreement gave Sudetenland to the Germans, and it is possible that in the view of the British Foreign Office the agreement remains in force until denounced. The exiles themselves refuse to recognise it.

Famous U.S. General

In the United States a record Staff Conference has just opened, attended by 1,400 officers and non-commissioned officers. This conference is the idea of General Hugh A. Drum, who is in command of Governor's Island, New York Harbour, where he has 100,000 men on manœuvres at present. General Drum, the only living officer to have been Chief of Staff to an American army in battle, is the son of a Civil War captain who was killed in the Spanish-American War. President McKinley offered commissions to five boys whose fathers had fallen in battle, and thus General Drum became a second lieutenant at the age of 18. He went with General Pershing to France in the last war.

The Petrol Situation

Many motorists have been reducing their requests for supplementary rations of petrol, because they have found that they can manage with less than allowed, and thousands of unused June and July supplementary coupons, with a large number of basic ration coupons, have been returned. The petrol situation in Britain is so good that it has been possible to give favourable consideration to the many appeals for special supplementary allowances. Farmers have been given extra supplies for harvesting, and, though there are more than 100,000 farmers in this country, complaints and protests following the issue of supplementary rations are described as negligible in number. Concessions have also been made for people who have to depend upon their cars to get to work if they continue to live in their homes several miles away from their employment.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Tribute to a Scholar

I learnt the other day that Dr. Best, Librarian of the National Library, is to receive a valuable collection of manuscripts and twenty-one copies of personal cuttings donated to the National Library of Ireland by the late Dr. W. J. Lawrence, who died in London last week.

Dr. Lawrence was the supreme authority on the Elizabethan theatre. He held the degree of D.Litt. from the National University of Ireland and from Queen's University, Belfast. He was born in Newcastle, Co. Down, about 75 years ago, and became a man of great erudition and deep study. His last work, still unpublished, is called "Shakespeare's Lost Hamlet," and embodies a valuable Shakespearean discovery. He regarded this as his best work.

Dr. Lawrence had a supreme contempt for "highbrows." This attitude was exemplified particularly in two of his works, "Speeding Up Shakespeare" and "Those Nut-Cracking Elizabethans." He had also projected a book on Peg Woffington, the famous Irish actress of the eighteenth century.

In past years Dr. Lawrence lectured at Yale and Harvard on his own special subjects covering the whole range of English and Irish drama.

He was a regular contributor to the Dublin Magazine. Among one of his close personal friends in Dublin he numbered the late W. B. Yeats, and that well-known authority on the Irish Theatre and architect of the Abbey Theatre, Mr. Joseph Holloway, whose private theatrical collection I have heard him praise.

Although the writings of the late Dr. Lawrence may be counted among the valuable contributions to literature of this century, he died a poor man. He was in weak health for the past few years, but was writing articles and reviews up to a couple of weeks ago. His last years, unhappily, were overshadowed by his constant fear of total blindness.

Mr. Orville Wright

We read so much about aerial battles involving hundreds of machines these days that some of us are inclined to forget that Orville Wright—one of the Wright brothers, the first men to achieve power-driven controlled flight—is still alive and taking an active interest in aviation.

He celebrates his sixty-ninth birthday to-day, and Americans are marking the event by unveiling a memorial to the achievement of the two brothers on a hill overlooking the sand dunes at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, where the first flights were made on December 17th, 1903.

On that day the Wrights made four flights, the longest covering 852 feet in 59 seconds (a speed approximately 30 miles per hour); their machine (with the pilot) weighed about 900lb. To-day, when we read of fighter aircraft flying at 400 m.p.h., of bombers and passenger 'planes covering many thousands of miles non-stop, and flying-boats weighing thirty tons and more, it seems a little difficult to realise that men were still struggling to discover the art of flying only thirty-seven years ago.

Wilbur Wright, the elder of the two brothers, died in 1912 at the age of 45. Their first machine is in the Science Museum at South Kensington, London, and near it is the converted Vickers-Vimy bomber in which Alcock and Brown made the first trans-Atlantic flight from Newfoundland to Clifden in 1919.

Mountain Merry-making

Finding ourselves free agents over the week-end, a friend and myself decided to steal a few hours from the night and seek the quiet of the mountains. Having abandoned the car near Stepaside, we set off.

Alas for our solitude! Although the hour was two, the whole mountain was twinkling like a living jewel, with its profusion of illuminated cottage windows. For a while we stood outside such a window and drank of its pot-pourri of singing, shouting and music.

Scarcely a few yards further on we passed a debating party in full swing. The many nonchalant "good nights" which hailed us were evidence of the fact that our presence at such an hour was nothing out of the ordinary. Every cross-road that we came upon seemed to be the meeting place for dancing parties. Cars and lorries provided the illuminations, accordions the music, and the shirt-sleeves and summer-frocked participants the gaiety.

Amidst all this "solitude," of course, cyclists and walkers, to say nothing of cars, continually passed us. Shouts and whistles swept the darkened fields, the glowing eyes of cigarettes being the only clue to the whereabouts of the mountain merry-makers. This was an Ireland, I thought, about which the city knows little.

So just before dawn we left our mountain, my friend aptly remarking that it would be nice to get "a few hours quiet sleep in the city." But who would begrudge the silent mountain its moment of gaiety on a warm summer's night?

The Sane Truth

I note that Killarney folk are grumbling about the G.A.A.'s alleged boycott of the FitzGerald Stadium in the County Kerry resort, writes a correspondent.

I remember visiting the site when this hurling and football pitch was being laid out a few years ago, and there is no harm in pointing out now that a lot of the spade-work, in the real sense of the term, was done by the less violent inmates of the Killarney Mental Home, which is at the side of the open-air grand stand. It was found that the levelling of the field and the banking of the thousands of sods to make the side-line terrace for spectators was a very beneficial therapeutic occupation for the patients.

A chat I had with one man as he rested on his spade outside the walls of the asylum convinced me that the doctor in charge knew which of the inmates could safely be trusted with the task of helping to give Killarney one of the best sports stadiums in the country.

"This is going to be the most wonderful stadium in the world," the Kerryman said to me. "It will have Madison Square Garden (N.Y.) beaten to a frazzle. You must be mad if you don't believe me!"

And now all Killarney is mad because no big inter-county hurling or football fixtures are being given to the new stadium by the Gaelic organisation! It is a strange world!

Post-haste

War—or, in our case, a state of emergency—certainly has a habit of smartening procedure.

Yesterday I had occasion to raise a certain matter with the police. What it was, I refuse to say, but it was nothing illegal. In normal times, this particular business would have taken me at least a fortnight. In fact, a friend who had raised a precisely similar matter had taken a full month to discharge the same.

I finished the whole job in less than a couple of hours—which included a half-hour's journey by 'bus, at least twenty minutes by push-bicycle, a conversation in between-times, and certain other delays. So hustle can be made.

QUIDNUNC.

25 YEARS AGO

From the Irish Times, 14th August, 1915.

Germany and Peace.

The Hamburger Nachrichten in a leading article ridicules the report in the foreign Press that Germany has made overtures for a separate peace with Russia by offering Russia the free use of the Dardanelles.

The paper says: "Germany does not own the Dardanelles and, therefore, could not offer them to anybody. The German Empire does not betray its allies."

Irish Mail Disaster.

A serious railway accident occurred on Saturday morning on the London and North Western Railway Company's system near Weedon. The train involved was the second portion of the Irish mail, which had left Euston at 8.30. The train barely had emerged from the Stowe tunnel when a local train coming from Rugby approached it on the up line. A connecting rod on the engine of the local train had broken lose and this was the immediate cause of the disaster. It fouled the first engine of the mail train, causing both engines to leave the permanent way and overturn five coaches. In the impact eight were killed and thirty injured.

500 'PLANES IN ATTACK ON ENGLAND

ITALY WARNS GREECE

"Challenging the Axis Powers"

BRITAIN BLAMED BY GAYDA

ITALY last night continued to attack Greece, alleging that the Metaxas Government was responsible for the murder of Daut Hoggia—claimed by Signor Gayda as a great patriot and by the Greeks as a highway robber.

Rome Radio stated that Greece was "challenging the Axis Powers" and her wilful mistakes could not be tolerated. The Greek explanation of the Hoggia slaying is rejected, Rome claiming proof that Greece was responsible.

The suggestion by Italy and Germany that Greece formally renounce Britain's guarantee of her independence and territorial integrity was reported in high diplomatic quarters in Athens to have been refused by Metaxas.

PATRIOT OR ROBBER?

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

ROME, Tuesday.

Rejecting Athens explanation of the death of Daut Hoggia, Italy to-day intensified her attacks on Greece.

"We have many proofs of political repression and persecution of Albanian Nationalists living under Greek rule," writes Signor Gayda in the Popolo D'Italia.

An official statement issued at Athens yesterday said that Hoggia—"a common criminal"—was murdered on Albanian soil by two of his fellow-countrymen, who fled to Greece and were arrested. Signor Gayda to-day contended that Hoggia was murdered by Greeks acting for the Greek authorities.

Despatches from Tirana to the Official Italian News Agency speak of the "shock and horror" felt by the Albanian people at the "murder of this patriot."

GREECE WARNED

Rome Radio stated to-night:—"There is definite proof in the hands of the Italian Government that the responsibility lies with Greece. The plot was conceived and conducted from within Greek territory. In a recent speech the Italian Foreign Minister said that the borders of Albania were sacred to Italy and would be defended. The Greek Government obviously do not understand, or do not want to understand, the meaning of these words. The Greek Government is challenging the Axis Powers by their Democratic policy of raping national liberty. These wilful mistakes cannot be tolerated in this decisive hour of European history."

ITALY ACCUSES BRITAIN

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

UNDATED, Tuesday.

Rome Radio announced to-night that a party of foreign journalists, including Americans, were on their way to Albania, presumably to get the Italian version of the reported Albania revolt. The announcer added that it was clear that Britain was planning action in Albania, and had not lost hope of "setting fire to that corner of Europe," whether from Albania or from Greece. The announcer accused Britain of the assassination of the Albanian patriot, Daut Hoggia.

Authoritative Italians indicated to-night that Italy would claim slices of Greek and Yugoslav territory sooner or later as due to Albania in "a general settlement."

A statement from the Berlin correspondent of the Spanish newspaper A B C yesterday was:—"In Berlin no importance is attributed to happenings in Albania."

YUGOSLAVIA, TOO

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

UNDATED, Tuesday.

Friction was threatened to-day between Italy and Yugoslavia as the Italian newspaper La Tribuna reported the killing of a Fascist in the Italian town of Zara, on the Yugoslav coast. The Fascist was reported to have been killed when he objected to a stranger singing a Slav song.

BRITISH GUARANTEES

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.

ATHENS, Tuesday.

It was reported in high diplomatic quarters here to-night that General Metaxas, Greek dictator, had rejected the suggestion by Italy and Germany that Greece should formally renounce Britain's guarantee of her independence and territorial integrity. There was no official confirmation of this report, however. The Italian Chargé d'Affaires was reported to have conveyed the message to-day with the German Minister present. Official comment was refused, but the statement, "The British guarantees still stand," was freely voiced in official quarters.

After meeting the Axis diplomats, General Metaxas hurried to the Palace for a long audience with the King, broken by a brief conference between the Premier and the permanent head of the Foreign Office. General Metaxas also conferred at length with the British Minister.

SOVIET SUPPORTS BULGARIA

An Associated Press message of Tuesday says: Russia to-day expressed sympathy for Bulgaria's demands for the return of Southern Dobrudja, while Signor Ansaldo indicated in his newspaper, Il Telegrafo, that Italy would demand the restoration of Albanian territories under Greek and Yugoslav rule in an eventual readjustment of the Balkans.

The Russian support of Bulgaria was given in a statement published in the official newspapers, Isvestia and Pravda. It stated: "The Soviet Union has always taken a position supporting the Bulgarian demands on Rumania."

Hungarian radio reported that there had been no development in the negotiations between Rumania and Bulgaria, but denied rumours of a breakdown in the talks.

EGYPT PREPARED TO RESIST

GROWING HOSTILITY TO ITALY

"TIMES" TELEGRAM.

CAIRO, Tuesday.

It is becoming increasingly evident that public opinion in Egypt has undergone a complete change in recent weeks. Formerly it was quite clear that the opinion of the majority was in favour of avoiding war at all costs, but now popular feeling is definitely on the side of resisting any attack. Few Egyptians wish their country to take any offensive action, but there is evidence on all sides of general support for the policy of participating in the defence of Egypt if the Italians should cross the frontiers.—(Copyright, per Press Association.)

MASS RAIDS ON R.A.F. AERODROMES

Fiercest Day's Fighting of the Week

69 GERMAN 'PLANES SHOT DOWN

Berlin Claims 96 British Machines Destroyed

GERMAN 'planes in large numbers crossed the Channel again yesterday and resumed the attacks on South-east England.

The raids extended in the afternoon from the Thames to areas in the south-west, particular attention being paid to aerodromes and shipping.

British machines went up to meet the attackers, and fierce fighting took place, many 'planes being brought down soon after the coast had been reached.

While a report in Berlin last night stated "the attacking spirit of the British fighters, especially those flying Spitfire machines, has fallen off noticeably since yesterday," the British Air Ministry News Service, in a statement, said: "At one time in to-day's battle enemy bombers and fighters were falling out of the sky at the rate of about one a minute."

The German attackers are estimated to have numbered about 500, and they came in three waves, directed at the Southampton and Kentish coasts.

Twenty-two of them are said to have been destroyed in the Southampton area alone.

The fighting, which was probably the fiercest since the German mass attacks began, continued throughout the day without cessation.

The claims made on both sides last night were:—

| BRITISH REPORT. | GERMAN REPORT. |
|---|---|
| 69 German 'planes down, | 96 British 'planes down, |
| 11 British 'planes missing. | 24 German 'planes missing. |

BRITISH PILOTS' STORIES

"Soon after dawn yesterday morning the German Air Force continued its mass attack on aerodromes and shipping along the South and South-East coasts of England."

In these words, the British Air Ministry News Service told late yesterday afternoon how the great battle of Britain was resumed.

Hour after hour Spitfire and Hurricane pilots roared up into the sky and waged relentless war against the German airmen. By noon it was clear that for the third day in succession the pilots were exacting a heavy toll on the raiders. Early reports showed that 10 bombers and a Messerschmitt Fighter had been shot down, and it was probable that many more had been destroyed. Only three British fighters were reported missing.

Reports from these British pilots pour into Fighter Command Headquarters almost minute by minute, telling in brief and simple language the dramatic story of their adventures. Here are a few examples taken from the combat reports of the fights early yesterday morning.

DRIVEN BACK

A squadron of Spitfires chased a large formation of Dornier bombers right across the Channel and damaged at least five.

Another Spitfire squadron met and engaged 30 Dornier bombers flying more than five miles high over the Kentish coast. The Squadron Leader, a South African, immediately ordered the attack and began the battle by spraying three of the bombers with machine-gun bullets in quick succession.

"I saw pieces flying off one, and another appeared to be on fire after my first burst," says the Squadron Leader's report.

A pilot officer with his opening burst of fire silenced the rear gunner and set fire to the fuselage of another bomber. A second pilot officer shot down a Dornier and saw it crash on a roundabout on a main road. He was finishing off the work of another pilot who had attacked this bomber, but was himself attacked by two others and forced to retire from the fight with his Spitfire damaged. He managed, however, to land his fighter safely.

FIGHT OVER THE THAMES

A flying officer attacked four bombers, one after the other, silencing the rear gunner in two of them, and saw thick clouds of smoke pouring from a third as it dived crippled towards the sea.

A Hurricane squadron engaged a tightly packed wedge formation of 24 Dornier 215 bombers over the Thames Estuary.

A sergeant pilot, who has already at least eight enemy aircraft to his credit, saw a bomber he had attacked falling, apparently out of control, towards the water. A few minutes later a pilot of the same squadron attacked another Dornier and watched the entire crew of five bale out by parachute.

THE SUSSEX COAST

While this fight was going on over the Thames, pilots from another Hurricane squadron were battling over the Sussex coast. They engaged a formation of 50 bombers, composed of Dorniers, Heinkels and Junkers Flying at 15,000 feet and a long way behind were 50 Messerschmitt 110 twin-engined fighters and 100 single-engined fighters. In the dog fights which followed at least one Junker 88 bomber was definitely destroyed, and among the probable victims of these Hurricane pilots were four more Junkers, 2 Dorniers, a Messerschmitt 100 and a Messerschmitt 109.

LATEST BRITISH FIGURES

The following announcement was made by the British Air Ministry at midnight:—

"Further reports have now established that the total number of enemy aircraft destroyed in to-day's actions is 69.

"Eleven of our fighters are missing, but the pilots of five are safe."

SOUTH-EAST AREA

HOW THE BATTLE WAS RESUMED

The losses of the German Air Force—they amount—not counting yesterday's—to 528 'planes over and around Britain since the war began—have cost Germany hundreds of invaluable personnel. Monday's losses of 62 machines cost them well over 100 trained airmen, the Air Ministry News Service stated yesterday.

When the first news of the resumed air battle over the South-East broke yesterday morning an observer said: "There were hundreds of 'planes in the sky at once."

It was a prelude in bullets, bombs and terrific A.A. fire to a third day's relentless war. Waves of German aircraft circled over one S.E. coast town, to be met by Spitfires eager for battle. Machine-gun fire was incessant. Down below spent ammunition cases flew about in all directions.

TEN BOMBS ON A TOWN

One German bomber was shot down in flames into the sea by a R.A.F. fighter after ten bombs had been dropped in a straight line across the town. Four houses were demolished.

The Germans were flying over in waves "every two or three minutes," according to one observer. Everywhere they met the vicious "pounce and kill" tactics of Spitfires and Hurricanes. A Messerschmitt pilot of 20 as he came down in a cornfield machine-gunned a gang of navvies, who charged him like Guardsmen, only to see the airman "saved" by the military. Another German pilot who baled out landed in a lake, and was drowned.

CREWS CAPTURED

A coastal vessel's gunner shot one raider down into the sea. Eight German airmen, the crews of two bombers, were taken prisoner together in one South-East area, and there were reports of others made captive. One was a boy of 15. Another, a giant of 6ft. 3ins., removed from his wrecked 'plane a toilet case containing hair oil and a fur coat. The railwaymen who captured yet another airman in a cornfield took off his boots and socks to prevent him escaping over the stubble.

Riddled with bullets while flying over the Thames Estuary, a Dornier bomber crashed in open country as it fled towards the coast in an attempt to cross the Channel. Although the crippled 'plane snapped in half, none of the crew of four was killed. Two, however, were badly injured. People nearby took the two prisoners and the two injured men were removed to hospital.

BATTLE IN THE CLOUDS

At least four German raiders are reported to have been shot down in dog-fights over the south-east coast in the afternoon. A.A. guns accounted for two and British fighters for two more. A fifth German 'plane was last seen rapidly losing height with black smoke pouring from its tail. An eye-witness of the battle estimated that between twenty and thirty German 'planes took part in the battle, which was fought in the clouds.

When the raiders first appeared a terrific shell barrage was put up. Fighters then roared up and watchers heard the stuttering of guns.

A Press Association Reporter writes:—"I saw one German bomber, a Heinkel, trying to slip back across the Channel by dodging from one cloud bank to another. It was flying at about 6,000 or 7,000 feet, when a Hurricane about two miles away spotted it.

"With a terrific roar the Hurricane opened out and gave chase. It rapidly overhauled the fleeing German, and, coming down on its tail in a power dive, let it have three long bursts. Smoke poured from the Heinkel's fuselage and it seemed doomed. I could not see the end, as both machines disappeared in a big bank of cloud. One of the raiders brought down flew over a town at 200 feet and let fly with his machine-gun. There were no casualties."

DRIVEN OUT TO SEA

An aerial battle broke out over the South-East Coast in the evening. Raiding 'planes were driven out to sea before they could drop their bombs. Bombs were dropped at a South-East Coast port late yesterday afternoon by a dive-bomber, when premises, including a furniture store and a hotel, were hit. There were some casualties. While the bombing was going on machine-gun battles could be heard overhead, though the 'planes were hidden in cloud.

A German bomber was shot down on the South-East Coast in the afternoon. It had been driven inland by R.A.F. 'planes, and was soon hemmed in. Later the crippled machine turned back, and narrowly missed the roofs of some bungalows before crashing into a field, where it was quickly enveloped in smoke and flames. Horses grazing nearby were startled by the explosion, and galloped around in terror long after the 'plane crashed.

The crew of a small motor coastal barge which was attacked and machine-gunned by a Heinkel bomber off the South-East Coast drove the raider off with their machine-gun. The Heinkel dived to within 300 feet, and watchers could see the rear gunner firing as the 'plane attacked the barge three times.

The attacks took place while about a hundred townspeople were helping to pull the lifeboat up the beach.

AIRMAN WHO FELL ON A TREE

HIS IRON CROSS RETURNED

A German airman who baled out of his machine in the fierce battle over the South-East Coast yesterday afternoon, landed in a tree, where he remained entangled until lowered by his captors with a rope tied round his body. His machine, with engines running full out and pouring smoke, crashed into a field. A Spitfire remained on its tail until its crash was certain. The German machine ploughed a great hole in the field, and then blew to pieces.

When the Iron Cross was taken from the airman's pocket he begged in broken English for its return, and it was immediately handed back.

Roy Mead, a twenty-year-old farm hand, saw the German falling, and, unarmed, went in search of him. When he found the airman he climbed up the tree and talked to him as best he could until help arrived. The German, both of whose feet had been shot through, was in great pain, and was afraid of falling on his injured feet.

The three members of the crew of a German bomber which crashed in flames to-day, and who dropped by parachute at various points, were captured by Home Guards. They gave themselves up willingly. One of them was injured about the legs. He threw his hands over his head, and, approaching a Home Guard, said: "I give up." One of the first on the scene was a well-known novelist. He is a captain in the local village Home Guard, and superintended the search for the men. The wrecked machine was a Junkers 88 dive bomber. The pilot was inside dead.

SOUTH-WEST ENGLAND

'PLANE EXPLODES IN MID-AIR

Fifty German aircraft were hotly engaged by British fighters over a South-west area yesterday afternoon. They were completely routed, and fled seaward, pursued by the fighters. Two Messerschmitt 110s were shot down on land, and another two were believed to have fallen into the sea. Two airmen from one of the 'planes descended by parachute into the sea, and were picked up by fishermen and conveyed to the shore. One of them, who could speak English, in reply to a remark about the war, would only comment: "This war is bad for everybody."

A man who saw the 'plane dive from the clouds said:—"I heard the roar of engines and the barking of cannon and machine-guns. Then came the long-drawn-out whine as a machine burst into view.

"It suddenly exploded in mid-air, the wings and tail falling from the fuselage, which fell like a stone to burn itself out in a field. The British fighter, a Hurricane, circled round, and then flew off to rejoin the fight."

The second 'plane crashed some distance away, and this was also burnt out. There was no sign of the crew, but it is thought they may have descended by parachute into the sea. An eye-witness said:—"I saw two men come down into the sea, but I did not see their 'plane crash. A motor speed boat put off to pick the men up."

FOUR BLAZING 'PLANES

Four blazing German 'planes crashed between two South-west coast towns during the battle between formations of German bombers and British fighters in the clouds high over both towns yesterday afternoon. It was the tail-end of the Channel fight.

It is certain that others fell into the sea, and the lifeboat has already made half a dozen trips to pick up survivors. There was terrific machine-gun fire, and the shore guns were silent. Not a bomb fell.

BRITISH CLAIMS

69 GERMAN 'PLANES DESTROYED

The British Air Ministry and Ministry of Home Security communiqué last night stated:—

"In the course of further enemy attacks this evening bombs were dropped on Southampton. Several fires broke out, but these were soon extinguished. Very few casualties were caused, though these included fatal injuries.

"Bombs were also dropped in the Isle of Wight and in country districts of Berkshire and Wiltshire. No casualties are reported from either of these areas.

"Several R.A.F. aerodromes in South-East England were attacked, and at one of these a number of casualties was caused, including some fatal injuries.

"Further reports show that 57 enemy aircraft have been destroyed to-day, 54 by fighters and three by anti-aircraft fire. Nine of our fighters have been lost, but two of the pilots are reported safe.

"In a later announcement the Air Ministry stated that the total number of German 'planes shot down was 69.

GERMAN REPORT

BERLIN, Tuesday.

Pursuing its new method of a running commentary on aerial warfare over the coast of Britain, the official German N— Agency said of to-day's battle:—

"Again and again fresh German squadrons of fighters and dive-bombers are attacking the British coast. The German bomber squadrons, which arrive in closed formation at a great height, are, almost without exception, accompanied by Messerschmitt 'planes to protect them.

"The attacking spirit of the British fighters, especially those flying Spitfire machines, has fallen off noticeably since yesterday."

The Agency claimed that up to early afternoon 33 British 'planes had been brought down in aerial combat to-day, while 15 were destroyed on the ground.

"Including the 15 'planes shot down near Aalborg, this brings to-day's British losses up to 69.

"Thirteen of our 'planes were lost."

LATER FIGURES

The German Official Agency later claimed that 96 British 'planes were brought down in yesterday's fighting. Of these, 50 were brought down in the Channel, 16 during a British attack on Aalborg, in Denmark, and 30 destroyed on the ground at British aerodromes.

Twenty-four German 'planes have been lost, but five members of various crews have been rescued.

"Nineteen Spitfire and eight Hurricane aircraft were shot down during intensive air fighting over the Channel and south coast this afternoon," said the Agency in another message. "The Germans lost eight Messerschmitts."

May Replace the British

ULTIMATUM TO FRENCH ENVOY

SHANGHAI, Tuesday.

ADMIRAL HART, Commander of the U.S. Asiatic Fleet, is arriving here to-morrow from Tsingtao on a quick, unscheduled trip. The visit is regarded as indicating a stiffening American attitude to the position in Shanghai. It is believed that Admiral Hart will attempt to prevent a decision by the Japanese on the disposition of the British defence sectors of Shanghai as a result of the withdrawal of British troops.

Admiral Hart is also a senior Foreign Officer, and in this capacity will out-rank the Japanese Rear Admiral Moriji Takeda, commanding officer of the Shanghai Defence Forces. The command goes to the highest ranking officer, and Admiral Takeda took over when Major-General Frank Simons, the British commander, withdrew. Thus Admiral Hart may be able to prevent any Japanese attempt to control the British sectors, in which are located Shanghai's big business, financial and industrial interests.

JAPANESE DEMANDS

Echoing sentiments by the Japanese Press, a spokesman of the Wang Ching Wei Government stated to-day: "The Chinese certainly will not tolerate the transfer of the British sector to Americans." Meanwhile, it was authoritatively reported that negotiations were under way in Vichy in connection with Japanese demands for economic and military concessions in Indo-China. Demands, which were described as being in the nature of an ultimatum, had been presented to the French Ambassador in Tokyo last week. Further stress was laid to-day on these demands by the newspaper, Hochi, which was quoted in a broadcast by the official Japanese News Agency as declaring that Japan would not be intimidated by any American interference in her relations with Indo-China.

Peiping has been left without British troops for the first time for more than forty years, as thirty men and two officers of the East Surrey Regiment ended their guard at the British Embassy building to-day, and boarded a train to join other troops withdrawing from China. United States marines will assume protection of the British Embassy, but will not be stationed as sentries.

CALL TO CHINESE

PRESS ASSOCIATION FOREIGN SPECIAL.

CHUNGKING, Tuesday.

A call to the Chinese people in territory occupied by Japan to rise and sabotage the Japanese war effort was issued by General Chiang Kai-Shek, Chinese Commander-in-Chief, to-day, on the third anniversary of the outbreak of fighting at Shanghai. The leading Chinese newspapers unanimously reaffirm China's determination to continue the fight.

The official Central Daily News appeals to the nation to devote its entire energy to the "coming Chinese counter-offensive—so that the sacrifices of the heroes of Shanghai may not be in vain," and invites "Pacific Powers" to reconsider the Far-Eastern situation in the light of China's three years of resistance. With 4,000,000 troops under arms China faces the future with confidence. It is only now admitted that her losses in the Shanghai fighting in 1937 were so heavy that the country came perilously close to defeat, but these losses have now been more than made good. Aumost 500,000 troops—the cream of the Chinese Army—were flung into the Shanghai battle.

FRENCH PRECAUTIONS

VICHY, Tuesday.

The French Press reported from Indo-China to-night that Admiral Decoux, acting Governor-General, had taken necessary measures to face the situation that could arise from a concentration of Japanese troops on the Indo-Chinese frontier.

THE BIG GERMAN OFFENSIVE

Opinion in Berlin

ZERO HOUR NOW APPROACHING

ASSOCIATED PRESS.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

NEUTRAL observers in Berlin reported to-day that all signs from German sources pointed to an early zero hour for the big offensive on England, with a landing attempt by German troops as the climax.

"FERRETING THE ENEMY"

German spokesmen said that Germany, in the dramatic air battles of the last few days over the Channel, was seeking to ferret out the enemy (Britain) and compel him either to fight or to risk having his airports, hangars and repair shops destroyed, and his 'planes demolished before they left the ground.

As in Poland, the spokesman said the Germans were trying to destroy British railways, airports, naval harbours, industrial plants and petrol dumps before trying the hazardous job of landing troops. It was also important for Germany, in the case of England, to silence coastal batteries.

To-day, for instance, they claimed to have smashed six hangars and brought down 12 barrage balloons in attacks on airports, anti-aircraft batteries, oil tanks and shipping.

MORE BIG CLAIMS

The latest German reports to-night claimed that Britain had lost 64 'planes to-day and Germany only seven.

The German High Command communiqué claimed that 92 British 'planes had been destroyed yesterday.

While the official German News Agency's running commentary this evening reckoned that as a result of the British attack on Aalborg, in which five 'planes were brought down, the total of British 'plane losses amounted to 38 during to-day, the German High Command communiqué stated three or four hours previously that the British had lost so far to-day 43 'planes.

At 6.45 the German Official News Agency stated that Britain's 'plane losses to-day were—Shot down 38, destroyed on ground 15, shot down near Aalborg 16.

BLITZKRIEG NEAR

BELIEF IN AMERICA

NEW YORK, Tuesday.

Nervous tension gripped the United States to-day as news of the intensified bombardments of Britain led to the impression that the long-awaited Blitzkrieg was about to begin. War nervousness was blamed for an outburst of selling in Wall Street that toppled leading Industrial shares from one to about 5 points.

From every bookstall blazed headlines:—"Airblitz Begins," "Air Fleets Locked in Greatest Battle," "Clouds of 'Planes Attack Britain as Advance Guard of Blitzkrieg."

Said the New York Sun—"The American public is watching the present battle with passionate interest and some concern. It is to be hoped that none but strictly military considerations will induce the British Censors to withhold facts or to colour them."

News of the air battles is exerting a tremendous effect on the Senate's debate of the Military Conscription Bill. Observers in Washington believed that if Germany launches a Blitzkrieg all opposition against the bill will break down.

MINESWEEPING TRAWLERS SUNK

The British Admiralty issued the following communiqué last night:—

"The Secretary of the Admiralty regrets to announce that H.M. minesweeping trawlers Tamarisk (skipper S. C. W. Babidge, R.N.R.) and Pyrope (skipper L. George, R.N.R., temporary in command) sustained damage as the result of enemy air attack and subsequently sank.

"The next-of-kin of casualties have been informed."

Donnpatrick Urban Council at an adjourned meeting on Monday night, Mr. E. K. McGrady, J.P., presiding, approved of a draft amended scheme submitted by the A.R.P. Advisory Committee, of which the Rev. Henry Hall is chairman, also the erection of a number of air-raid shelters.

ENGLISH COAST TOWN EXPLOSIONS

LONG RANGE GUNS SUSPECTED

TWO A.R.P. WORKERS FOUND KILLED

FROM PRESS ASSOCIATION.

LONDON, Tuesday.

AUTHORITIES were last night examining heavy fragments of grooved steel, picked up on the scene of two mysterious explosions on the South-East coast earlier in the day.

Two A.R.P. workers—a man and a woman, who had been life-long friends—were killed and a number of people reported injured in the explosions, one of which wrecked houses.

The metal splinters were said to resemble shell pieces rather than bomb splinters.

Residents where the explosions occurred had heard no sounds of falling bombs, and no plane had been visible or audible at the time.

Scores of metal fragments were collected by the police. Many of the splinters were still red hot, supporting a theory that they may have been pieecs of shells fired from long-range German guns.

TWO EXPLOSIONS

The explosions occurred in the morning. A mighty bang shook the district, and was instantly followed by a second explosion.

The blast of the first ripped open the walls of a house and tore off the roof. Dense clouds of flying dust filled the air. Glass and wood sprinkled other houses, and windows were shattered.

No one in a house was killed, and only one resident—a soldier standing in front of a house—was injured. A cat and dog were the only casualties.

A man and his wife in the most seriously damaged house were buried under heaps of débris, but dug themselves out unhurt. In another house a heavy piece of shrapnel flew past a woman, who was washing at her scullery sink, and embedded itself in a wall.

Another splinter shot past a woman hanging out washing on her back garden clothes line, tore its way through two nine-inch walls and lodged in the kitchen wall.

FOUND WIFE KILLED

There was a tragic scene when an ambulance drove up to the aid of the man and woman who were killed in a lane. As the driver left the driving seat he gazed at the woman who had been killed instantly, blurted out "That is my wife," and fainted into the arms of an air raid warden.

The woman, a first-aid worker, had hurried out to go to her post. The man, who was a member of the A.R.P. squad at his mill, was also hurrying to his post. He met the woman by chance, and they had just turned the corner of the lane when the explosion occurred.

A narrow escape was experienced by another woman, the 24-year-old wife of a leading aircraftman. She had just left the kitchen of her upstairs flat and walked through the lounge when the houses opposite were struck and the windows of her kitchen were blown in.

A girl whose bedroom is below hers had just left it. She found her bed strewn with long jagged splinters of glass and metal.

A dramatic story was told to a Press Association reporter by a man. "There was a terrific bang which shook the whole building and sent pieces of glass flying all over us, throwing several of us to the floor," he said.

"Looking out I saw a house behind us enveloped in dense clouds of smoke and dust. I ran up to it as people came streaming out remarkably cool and calm.

"One of our men was hit by a piece of shrapnel in front of his house. He was taken to a first-aid post. I should say from the pieces of shrapnel I have seen and from the nature of the explosion that the projectile was a shell."

MR. DE VALERA TO REVIEW TROOPS AT CORK

Mr. de Valera and members of the Defence Council, accompanied by the Chief of Staff of the Army, will visit Cork on Saturday next to review troops at Collins Barracks, Cork. They will later inspect other units of defence in the Southern area.

BRITISH TORPEDO-BOATS IN ACTION

British motor torpedo boats clashed with German vessels early yesterday. In a series of fights one of them rammed a German ship, another engaged two with machine-gun fire and grenades at almost point-blank range. A third attacked two others. Another had two running fights with an E boat, and a German aircraft which attacked retired on fire and losing height rapidly.

An Admiralty communiqué to-night, giving details of the engagements, stated that the British forces suffered no casualties, and the only damage was to one boat through ramming.

The British Admiralty last night issued the following communiqué:—

"In the early hours of this morning some of our motor torpedo boats made contact with enemy light forces. The enemy when sighted were only about 100 yards from our motor torpedo boats, which were travelling at about thirty knots.

"They were two small ships. One of our motor torpedo boats, thinking that the enemy ahead was an E boat, and being too close to take other action, rammed the enemy.

"The enemy ships were, however, larger than boats, and this motor torpedo boat suffered some damage to her bows. Another of our motor torpedo boats passed between the two enemy ships and engaged them with machine-gun fire and grenades at almost point-blank range.

"It is considered that this fire took considerable effect. The enemy's return fire was ineffective. A third of our motor torpedo boats passed beyond these two enemy ships and sighted two larger vessels. These she engaged with machine-gun fire at very close range. Later one of our motor torpedo boats had two running fights with an enemy E boat. It was too dark to ascertain what damage was inflicted on the enemy during these fights.

"After this action some of our motor torpedo boats were attacked by a German aircraft from a height of 500 feet. A hot and accurate fire was opened by our motor torpedo boats, and, when last seen, the aircraft was on fire and losing height rapidly.

"No casualties were suffered by the British forces in any of these engagements, and none of our motor torpedo boats suffered any damage, apart from the damage suffered by one boat through ramming. This boat also returned safely."

BRITISH SHIPS IN COLLISION

Two British ships—the liner Ceramic (18,713 tons) and the freighter Testbank (5,083)—have been in collision in the South Atlantic, it was learned in London yesterday.

Both ships were damaged and had to proceed to harbour, but no casualties have been reported.

The passengers were taken off the Ceramic by another liner.

The Ceramic is owned by Shaw, Savill and Albion Co., Ltd., and the Testbank by the Bank Line, Ltd.

MR. J. McGRATH'S PURCHASE

BROWNSTOWN STUD FARM, CURRAGH

Mr. Joseph McGrath, Director of the Hospitals' Sweep, is the purchaser of the Brownstown Stud Farm at the Curragh. This noted establishment was sold privately by Mr. F. S. Myerscough, head of Messrs. Coyle and Co., two weeks ago. Originally the property of Colonel Knox, Brownstown came into the possession during the last war of Mr. W. Parrish, who raced here for some time. It was later purchased by Mr. Myerscough, who bred some good horses there. Although Mr. McGrath has kept brood mares for the past few years, he has not until now established a regular headquarters for bloodstock breeding.

At present the racehorses of Miss Dorothy Paget are stabled at Brownstown.

PETER ECKERSLEY KILLED

M.P. AND ENGLAND CRICKETER

Mr Peter T. Eckersley, M.P., who for six years was captain of Lancashire County cricket team, was killed yesterday. He was a lieutenant in the Air Division of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. He was 36. Known as the "cricketer airman," because he often flew his own machine to matches, he was captain of the Lancashire side when they won the County Championship. He is the second international figure in British sport to be killed in a flying accident since the beginning of the war. The first was Prince Obolensky, the England Rugby International, who died in a 'plane crash on March 29. In 1938 Peter Eckersley created a precedent by giving up active politics for cricket, and in 1935 he gave up cricket for politics. It was in this year that he was elected Conservative member for the Exchange Division of Manchester.

LORD SHUTTLEWORTH REPORTED MISSING

Lord Shuttleworth, a R.A.F. flying officer, is missing, following operations on August 8, according to information given to relatives by the British Air Ministry. He succeeded to his title last year on the death of his grandfather, his father being killed in the last war.

Lord Shuttleworth, who is 26, is the son of the late Captain the Hon. Laurence Kay-Shuttleworth, R.F.A., who fell in action in the last war.

AUSTRALIAN AIR CRASH

Three Ministers Killed

CHIEF OF STAFF ALSO DEAD

From Reuter's Correspondent.

CANBERRA, Tuesday.

EYE-WITNESSES say that stalling (loss of flying speed) at a low height was responsible for the crash of a Lockheed-Hudson bomber near Canberra to-day, when three Australian Cabinet Ministers and the Chief of the Army General Staff were among ten killed.

THE VICTIMS

It is learned officially that radio messages received by the 'plane on its flight from Melbourne to Canberra—where the Ministers were to attend a Cabinet meeting—indicated that nothing unusual had occurred after leaving Melbourne. They were routine reports on the 'plane's progress.

The victims of the crash were:—

Brigadier Geoffrey Austin Street, Minister for Defence (46);

James Valentine Fairbairn, Minister for Civil Aviation (43);

Sir Henry Gullet, Vice-President of the Executive Council (62);

Sir Cyril White, Chief of Staff of the Army (64);

Colonel Thornthwait, Sir Cyril's Chief of Staff;

Mr. Eldford, Secretary to Brigadier Street, and the four members of the aeroplane's crew.

PRIME MINISTER'S GRIEF

The Prime Minister, Mr. Menzies, cancelled the Cabinet meeting and, overcome with emotion, said:—"It is a shocking piece of news and a great national calamity, the final consequences of which have not yet been fully realised.

"It is a most grievous personal loss; every man concerned was doing war service of the first importance."

Before the crash the aeroplane twice circled the Canberra Airfield. Then it disappeared behind some hills and hit the ground some eight miles away. The wreckage burst into flames.

RESCUE IMPOSSIBLE

So fierce was the blaze that would-be rescuers who ran to the spot could not approach within 50 yards. An Air Force officer said the machine spun "with terrific force" towards the ground. It disappeared into a valley in an almost vertical dive.

The crash is being investigated by the Air Accidents Investigation Committee.

To-morrow's meeting of the Australian Parliament will be followed by an adjournment as a mark of respect to the dead.

TEMPORARY MINISTERS

It is officially stated that Mr. Fadden and Senator McBride, at present Ministers without portfolios, will be sworn-in in a day or two as temporary Ministers for Air and for the Army.

Air Marshal Sir Charles Burnett, Chief of the R.A.A.F., is on his way here to confer with Mr. Menzies regarding the future of the Air Training Scheme, which was under the control of Mr. Fairbairn.

BRITAIN'S PROFOUND SYMPATHY

Mr. Churchill has telegraphed the following message of sympathy to Mr. Menzies, Prime Minister of Australia:—

"On behalf of the Government and people of this country I extend to you and your fellow-members of the Cabinet, and to the people of Australia, our profound sympathy in the tragic loss in an aeroplane accident of three of your colleagues of the Chief Australian General Staff and of their fellow-passengers and crew of the aeroplane.

"We know how sorely you in Australia will miss them. The loss is ours, too, for we have learnt by personal acquaintance, and by our knowledge of what they have achieved, how great has been their contribution, not only to Australia, but to the whole Empire."

SIR CYRIL B. B. WHITE

Lieutenant-General Sir Cyril Brudenell Bingham White was born on September 23rd, 1876, the son of the late Warren White, of Cahirblonie, County Clare. He served in the South African War, in the Dardanelles in 1915, and in the European War from 1915 to 1918, and was an A.D.C. to the King from 1915 to 1918. General White possessed many decorations, including Belgian, French, Japanese and Portuguese Orders, while he was also D.S.O. and C.B.

General White was Chief of the Australian General Staff from 1920 to 1923, and Chairman of the Commonwealth Public Services Board from 1923 to 1928. After retirement he held a number of directorships. He married in 1905 Miss Ethel Davidson, and had two sons.

ELEVEN INQUESTS

BODIES WASHED ASHORE AT SLIGO

From Our Correspondent.

SLIGO, Tuesday.

Inquests on eleven bodies washed in at various points on the County Sligo coast have been held by Dr. John P. Moran, Deputy Coroner, Sligo, at Augharrow, Grange.

Garda P. Jennings stated that a body, reported by Daniel Waters, Lislary, was dressed in military uniform, in the pockets of which were letters addressed to Trooper A. Wilson, No. 1 P.T.W. Camp, B.E.F., a Service pay book in the name of Alexander Wilson, 75 French francs and four shillings one penny in English money; two identity discs bore the name of Wilson and the number 325208 A watch found on him stopped at 8.47.

Michael Feeney, Ballyconnell, deposed to finding the body of an unknown man at Ballyconnell Strand.

At Ballinfull one of the three bodies found on the shore was identified as that of Franz Kirste; a British ration book found in his clothing bore this name, and the address 14 Fawley road, London, N.W.6.

At an inquest at Easky, where three bodies were found, one was identified as that of Private Mitchell.

An inquest was also held at Dromore, West, on three bodies washed ashore at Dunmodden and Carrowmoran. On one of the bodies, Garda Walsh stated, he found a piece of paper with the printed words: "Prisoners of War Notepaper."

Verdicts were recorded in all cases of death from exposure and drowning.

The bodies in each instance were buried in the local cemeteries.

LITHUANIAN MINISTER GIVING IN

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, Tuesday.

M. Kazys Skirpa, Lithuanian Minister to Germany, is ending his resistance to the Russian annexation of Lithuania. He indicated to-night that he would withdraw to-morrow. Since last Friday M. Skirpa has been vigorously refusing to turn over his Legation to the Russians. The Minister said that his campaign had served its purpose.

WHY FRANCE IS SUFFERING

"INCOMPETENCE AND TREACHERY"

MARSHAL PETAIN POINTS THE REMEDY

Press Association War Special.

VICHY, Tuesday.

MARSHAL Pétain broadcast to the French nation to-night on his plans for the future. He expressed his thanks for "American generosity," thanked the Swiss, who had sent ten loads on food, and explained that Germany had consented in principle to the transfer of the French Government to Paris, but would not give final authority until "certain conditions" had been fulfilled.

Referring to the immense sufferings of France, Marshal Pétain said: "I understand their impatience, their exasperation ever, in view of what are only too often inadequate remedies for the ills afflicting them."

The measures taken or envisaged included "cleaning up of our administration, repression of alcoholism, which was destroying our race; encouragement of the family, and educational reform."

Urgent immediate problems, he said, were the food supply, repatriation of refugees, the fate of prisoners of war, employment for demobilised soldiers, and the organisation of the life "of our young people."

SOME CAUSES OF SUFFERING

It was not in their power to minimise the severity of their sufferings arising from the French defeat. "Others have their origin in the same causes which led the country to disaster—in the demoralisation and disorganisation which invaded the body of the State like gangrene, introducing laziness and incompetence, and sometimes even systematic sabotage, with a view to provoking social disorder or international revolution.

"These causes have not disappeared with the mere change in our institution. They will only disappear when there is a change in the men themselves."

The intentions of the Government, he said, were misrepresented by "perfidious propaganda." and carefully-considered measures were prevented from bearing fruit owing to "the procrastination, incapacity or treachery of too great a number of Executive officials. This inefficiency and treachery will be punished."

NEW FRANCE'S CALL

"The new France," said Marshal Pétain, "calls for servants animated by a new spirit—she will have them."

The "hideous spectre of famine, which we believed had been banished for ever," had made rationing necessary, that all might have their fair share of the resources of the nation.

A credit of two milliards of francs had been granted to farmers, whose livestock was wholly or partially destroyed.

Forecasting an increase in the number of farms "run" by family labour, and "a rural equipment worthy of our nation," Marshal Pétain said that this would result in rescue from the ruin which obstinate and detestable policies brought to France long before the war.

MESSAGE TO YOUTH

He addressed a special message of hope to the youth of France—"the hope of the new France." Extensive works for the young men of the country were contemplated, and there would be family settlements, apprenticeships to skilled trades, labour camps and agricultural assistance. All existing youth movements would be maintained and extended "by new developments."

He described Paris as the "melting pot for all time of the destinies of France" and the natural seat of Government authority, and he added:—"The population of Paris are surprised at the actions of their leaders, especially that of the Chief of State (Petain). The populations of the occupied zone consider that the Government residing in Paris would be better placed to deal effectively with their interests. I share these sentiments."

After explaining the German attitude, Marshal Petain said:—"We must continue to wait, but I believe I can assure you that it is only a delay."

END OF "LIES AND DREAMS"

Summarising the political activities of the seventy-five years which preceded the war, he said:—"The rule of the game consisted in analysing all the grounds for irritation until our people, then one of the happiest in the world, was made to believe they were the most unfortunate. No party hesitated to promise that, if only France would entrust it with office, the hell in which they lived would be changed into an earthly paradise. There is no longer any room for lies and dreams. The French people must bear the inevitable firmly and patiently."

After the Marshal's speech the "Marseillaise" was played.

Speaking of American generosity, Marshal Petain said:—"Thanks to it, in a few weeks more than a thousand trucks of various foodstuffs have been distributed to the refugee population in the Free Zone, while a considerable number of truck-loads have been placed at the disposal of the necessitous population of Paris."

PARISH COUNCILS

DUN LAOGHAIRE

The Right Rev. Monsignor Boylan, D.D., P.P., Dun Laoghaire, presided at a public meeting in St. Michael's Parochial Hall, Dun Laoghaire, last night, when a provisional committee of the Dun Laoghaire Parish Council was formed. He said that it was the expressed desire of their Government that Parish Committees should be established pretty generally throughout the country. The reason for that was obvious, because in the event of an invasion of the country outlying places from the central Government would be cut off, and there was great risk of chaos and general disorder. It was clear that local committees would help greatly to safeguard the situation by looking after supplies and assisting in various ways to protect the people from famine and disorder. Although that might be likely to apply to rural districts rather than to a place like Dun Laoghaire, where they had central administration, yet one of the Government Ministers had spoken strongly in favour of Parish Committees being established in urban districts.

The attendance included:—Sir James Hartigan, Rev. M. V. Ronan, C.C.; Rev. L. J. Potter, C.C.; Dr. T. M. Corbet, Messrs. W. Davin, T.D.; E. J. Kenny, solicitor; E. M. Lupton, K.C.; J. H. Carr, F.R.C.V.S.; Malachy Doyle., J. J. O'Leary, J. Ivers, James O'Rourke, Maurice Nugent, Patrick Mellon, T. Lehane. Mr. J. W. Canavan acted as Hon. Secretary to the meeting.

RUSH

At a public meeting held in Rush, the following were elected:—President: Very Rev. F. M. Gaynor, P.P.; Vice-President: Rev. M. C. Burke, C.C.; Hon. Treasurer: Mr. Patrick Duffy; Hon. Secretary: Mr. Joseph Kane; Committee: Messrs. Michael Jones, James Martin, Robert McMahon, Patrick Mackey, George Fitch, Laurence McGuinness, Terence Bell, Michael Kelly, Richard Butler, John Lambe, John Toole, Christopher Lambe, James Leonard and Thomas Donnelly.

Mr. J. Brown, M.P. for South Down, has tabled the following notice of motion for debate in the Northern Parliament:—"That this House views with deep dissatisfaction the existence in Northern Ireland of 71,410 unemployed persons, and urges upon the Government the vital necessity for the most thorough and comprehensive measures to deal with this problem forthwith."

FIGHT IN SOMALI MOUNTAINS

Italian General Attack Repelled

GRAZIANI'S ADVANCE AWAITED

Associated Press Telegram.

WITH Marshal Graziani's offensive not yet launched on Egypt's Libyan frontier, the main British and Italian forces have met and gone into action in the mountains of British Somaliland, and the British Middle East General Headquarters' communiqué announces that the Italian general attack has been broken up.

The Italian Headquarters' communiqué stated that "at 1 p.m. on August 11 Italian troops attacked the main British forces. The attack yesterday developed into a series of fierce engagements in the region of Adaleh—a small town on a secondary road, running from Berbera southwards into Abyssinia.

"This town was captured. The battle continues."

The Rome version above was superseded by Britain's Middle East General Headquarters' communiqué, which stated:—

"Reports have now been received of a general attack on our positions covering the Jugurgan Pass—35 miles S.S.E. of Berbera—on August 11.

"In spite of intensive support of low-flying aircraft, the attacks were broken up and repulsed by our artillery and small arms fire.

"In one place the enemy obtained a small local advantage, but were immediately counter-attacked.

"One large enemy bomber was brought down by infantry fire.

"On other fronts nothing to report."

ITALIAN THRUST AWAITED

MOTORISED UNITS ON LIBYAN BORDER

Associated Press Telegram.

CAIRO, Tuesday.

British officers reported to-day that the Italians had a big concentration of motorised fighting units on the Libyan frontier, destined to form the backbone of the long-awaited Italian offensive against the British troops in Egypt.

If this is so, Marshal Graziani, the Italian Commander, is taking a leaf out of Hitler's book, and relying on mechanised speed and surprise tactics in an attempt to undermine the British resistance. A theory held here is that Marshal Graziani will hold his drive into Egypt until the German attack on Britain develops.

The Egyptian newspaper Al Balagh to-day said that the Italian march on Egypt was expected for the "latter two weeks of August, or early September," when the heat is more bearable, and preparations are completed.

The Press to-day showed that Egypt is fully preparing itself for the attack, and is taking advantage of the present hesitation of the Italians on the Western desert to perfect her own defences. It contained a new series of warnings to Italy that Egypt would throw all her resources into the fight alongside Britain if Egypt were attacked.

POSSIBLE QUICK SURPRISE

Although the Western frontier of Libya is all quiet at present, reconnaissances show that Marshal Graziani is moving up heavy tanks, armoured cars, 'planes and high-speed lorries.

Military observers believe that even during the slightly less stifling weather at the end of the month, when the offensive is expected, the heat of the desert would make large scale infantry attacks impracticable. Therefore, mechanised units must lead the way.

Marshal Graziani, it is believed, may try a quick surprise thrust to break the British lines, and use lorries to bring up the infantry to follow any break through.

OBITUARY

THE VERY REV. THOMAS JOSEPH FARRELL, P.P.

The death occurred on Monday last of the Very Rev. Thomas Joseph Farrell, P.P., Dolphin's Barn, Dublin, who had been a curate in the Pro-Cathedral from 1920 until 1939, when he was appointed Administrator. A few months afterwards he was appointed Parish Priest of Our Lady of Dolours, Dolphin's Barn.

Educated at St. Mary's College, Rathmines, Father Farrell was ordained at Clonliffe in 1907, and after nearly a year at Arklow was transferred to Meath Street, Dublin, where, in 1918, he founded Our Lady's Hostel for Working Girls. He was the founder of the Catholic Boy Scout movement, and had guided it zealously since its inception in Dublin.

THE REV. CANON C. E. SCOTT

By the death of the Rev. Canon Charles Edward Scott, Rector of Douglas, Cork, which occurred unexpectedly yesterday after an illness of only a few days' duration, the Church of Ireland in the Cork Diocese has lost one of its most beloved clergymen. Born in Co. Tyrone, in 1852, Canon Scott was educated at Bath College and at Trinity College, Dublin. In 1890 he was ordained, and appointed to the Curacy of St. Luke's, Cork. Five years later he went to Carrigaline as Rector, and in 1899 he became Rector of Rushbrooke. In 1913 he was appointed a Canon of St. Finbarr's Cathedral, and in the following year he was appointed to Douglas, where for the past quarter of a century he had ministered. In 1926 he was appointed Precentor of the Cork Cathedral. Canon Scott always took a keen interest in Cork Protestant Orphan Society and in the Buckingham House School, of which he was honorary secretary for close on forty years. He is survived by his wife and by three daughters.

MR. SEAN O CUIV

The death occurred at a Dublin nursing home last night of Mr. Sean O Cuiv, who until recently was Director of the Government Information Bureau. Mr. O Cuiv, who was born at Macroom, County Cork, was in his sixty-fifth year. He was noted chiefly for his interest in the Irish language, of which he was an ardent advocate. He became a member of the Gaelic League in 1897, and in subsequent years he contributed much to the advancement of the language movement, and, among his other activities, he was editor of the language journal, Glor na Ly, as well as of Fainne an Lae. He published many works on the subject of Irish, including a "Short Cut to Irish," which had a wide circulation.

He entered journalism as a member of the Cork Daily Herald, and subsequently came to Dublin, where he was connected with the Freeman's Journal and the Evening Telegraph. Later he became Irish Editor of the Irish Independent, a post which he occupied until 1934, when he was appointed by Mr. de Valera's Government to the Directorship of the Government Information Bureau. For many years he was a close friend of Mr. de Valera, and of the Ministers of his Government.

Mr. O Cuiv's wife died some years ago. He leaves two sons and three daughters. One of his sons is the Rev. Sean O Cuiv, of the Dublin Diocese; the other is Mr. Andreas O Cuiv, a barrister.

DR. JAMES ROBERTS

The death of Dr. James Roberts in St. John's Hospital, Limerick, yesterday, deprives Limerick City of one of its best-known medical practitioners. Dr. Roberts had been in failing health for some time, but his death at a comparatively early age has caused general regret. He graduated thirty-five years ago at the old Catholic School of Medicine, and had built up an extensive practice in Limerick. Dr. Roberts was a well-known sportsman, and was for many years an Irish Cup nominator. Also he was keenly interested in yachting and boxing. He was governor and honorary surgeon to Barrington's and St. John's Hospitals, in both of which he took an active interest.

MR. DANIEL QUINLAN

Mr. Daniel Quinlan, who died at his residence, Elm Park, Limerick, yesterday, was a member of a well-known Limerick family. He was the father of Mr. Joseph Quinlan, director and general salesman of the Irish-American Oil Company, Dublin, and of Mr. P. F. Quinlan, ex-Mayor of Limerick and managing director of the Limerick Motor Works and other companies.

MR. ROBERT WYLIE

The death occurred suddenly yesterday morning at his residence, 3 Cardigan Drive, Belfast, of Mr. Robert Wylie, a well-known builder. Mr. Wylie took an active part in the Cliftonville Bowling Club, and was recognised as a fine lead. He left the clubhouse on Monday night about 10.30, when he appeared to be in his usual good health, but he took ill early yesterday morning. Mr. Wylie was a very successful business man.

TO REVIVE THE OLD SYSTEM

AIMS OF MUINTIR NA TIRE

PROFESSOR O'RAHILLY'S ADDRESS

From Our Reporter.

VIRGINIA (CO. CAVAN), Tuesday.

A CONDEMNATION of centralisation and an explanation of the Catholic principles of the organisation were the principle features of an address by Professor Alfred O'Rahilly, University College, Cork, on "Muintir na Tire and the Soul of Ireland," which he delivered this afternoon at the third public meeting of the Rural Week.

"We have got to get rid of metropolitan 'gangsterism,'" said Professor O'Rahilly. "We have got to get back some of the faith and fire that we had in Volunteer days. We have to stop counting heads. There is not as much in one head as another."

He described the City Guilds as temporary and auxiliary things, merely backing the idea of Muintir na Tire. He then called attention to the similarity between the craft guilds of six centuries ago and trade unions, and described the Parish Guilds of which, he said, there were thousands in England as long ago as the 13th century. They in Muintir na Tire were trying to go back to the Middle Ages, when the guilds were both religious and social. Those guilds failed ultimately, for various reasons, but, firstly, because religion failed. When the gospel of money and greed came in such things died out. Centralisation was another cause of their failure, when the unit of society became nation-wide.

THE OLD SYSTEM.

In Muintir na Tire they were trying to revive the old system. They wanted to get back local responsibility. People nowadays voted in a political way, and had no responsibility over their own trades. After risking their lives for freedom, they in Ireland had failed to produce a system of their own and were like a second-rate county in England—that was the spirit they had got to get rid of. There was a tremendous lot that they could produce in a parish. They need not have any civil servant bureaucracy. There was no need for an elaborate paper constitution. The organisation that suited one parish might not suit another. The main thing was to get together. As much work as possible that could be done locally should be done locally.

Referring to the Local Government Bill, he said that, if a parish did not establish a committee, the County Council would run the place for the parish. But the parish council must be voluntary. Unless the spirit moved them to act, what was the good of acting? It was a voluntary system, but they must get powers. He went on to deal with some of the work that the parishes could do, and mentioned the maintenance of schools, the owning of parish halls, looking after local roads and the providing of work for local labour. Why would the local unemployed, he asked, not drain the farmers' land, the farmer to pay the difference between the "dole" and the men's wages? They were paying a subsidy in the form of a tariff to nearly every firm in the country, so why should they not pay a subsidy to the farmer?

AGRICULTURE

He believed that a central council for agriculture should be elected by diocesan guilds, directly or indirectly, through the parish councils. Agriculture was more than a vocation. It was a way of life, and the small towns were a part of the life of rural Ireland. Their council should represent rural Ireland and be free from sectional interests. They had got to try to bring functional democracy back to Ireland. They were not counting heads, but paying attention to what was inside them. They were not anti-Parliamentarians, but they could do things that Parliament could not do.

Professor O'Rahilly spoke of Mussolini's volunteers lining up for "the battle of the harvest," and said that when that spirit came to this country he would have hope. It was better to help people to live than to seek glory in killing them. He asked was Muintir na Tire a Catholic organisation, and said that it was and it was not. There were Catholic principles at the back of it. The Catholics were 95 per cent. of the people and they should never forget it. They should assert the social principles that 95 per cent. of the people believed in. That was not intolerance. They considered the case for a Protestant school as important as that for a Catholic school, but they did not want the State running the schools and they disliked the negation of religion in any people.

The brother and sister philosophy of the Middle Ages was one that they could emulate to-day, for in Ireland they had one of the most homogeneous people in the world.

FALSE IDEOLOGIES

Lord ffrench, who presided, said that Professor O'Rahilly was able to put the Catholic case against anyone. A lot of the false ideologies and the things that had caused the troubles of to-day had their roots in universities, but in Ireland they had professors who were on the other side.

The Very Rev. Dr. P. McKevitt, Maynooth College, said that no matter how the war went there were hard days in store for Ireland in so far as there was dependence on foreign markets. Unless there was a resilience in the people most of the State-sponsored remedial schemes would fail.

The Rev. T. Kirby, Croome, said that the fact of Ireland's rural status was being lost sight of.

The Rev. F. O'Donnell, Mohill, said that the lecturer had brought them back to the days when the monasteries practised Communism at its best.

Most Rev. Dr. Lyons, Bishop of Kilmore, said that he saw a glorious future for the Irish people after the war when they would fall back on that Christian charity which had carried them through the centuries.

In addition to the public meetings, sessions of Muintir na Tire's Executive Council are being held each forenoon. While these meetings are private, it is understood that the executive have discussed the making of an appeal for £10,000 to establish a headquarters, a revision of their constitution, and amendment of the Local Government Bill in its relation to parish councils.

AGRICULTURAL PRICE INDEX

The Agricultural Price Index Number for June, 1940, was 143.8 (base 1911-13=100), compared with 150.8 in May, 1940, and 114.8 in June, 1939.

BRITISH BOMBERS ACTIVE

From Jutland to Bay of Biscay

ATTACKS ON GERMAN OBJECTIVES

LAST night's British Air Ministry communiqué stated:—

"Targets attacked by Royal Air Force bombers last night (Monday) included the Gotha air-frame factory and other objectives in North-west Germany and occupied territory in France and Holland.

"Attacks were pressed home in spite of ice and cloud.

"Raids were also made on seventeen aerodromes and the seaplane base at Borkum.

"From these operations, four of our aircraft have not returned.

"The harbour at Helder, on the Dutch coast, was bombed, in co-operation with aircraft of the Fleet air arm.

"Medium bombers carried out daylight operations to-day over an area extending from Jutland to the Bay of Biscay.

"Included among the objectives attacked were enemy occupied aerodromes at Waalhaven, Hingene, Caen, Cherbourg, Morlaix and a seaplane base at Brest.

"Twelve aircraft have not returned."

HELDER BOMBED

SUPPOSED HIT ON AMMUNITION DUMP

A tremendous explosion on the quayside at Helder, on the Dutch coast, followed a bombing attack by a Blenheim of the Coastal Command last night (Monday).

"Probably an ammunition dump was hit," states the British Air Ministry News Service.

"As the pilot circled overhead there was a series of twenty smaller explosions.

"When the Blenheim was well out to sea on its way home the gunners could still see more explosions on the quay.

"Other Blenheims of the same squadron, co-operating with Albacore and Swordfish aircraft of the Fleet air arm, raided the harbour. Many fires were started.

"Patrolling Hudson aircraft also took part in the attacks. One of them got a stick of bombs across a dozen A.A. ships in the harbour at Helder, while the gunner shot at a searchlight and put it out.

"The aerodrome on the island of Texel was attacked and buildings fired.

"At the De Kooy aerodrome a pilot dropped all his bombs on the airfield.

"A temperature of 20 degrees below zero and ice-forming conditions up to a height of over three miles were experienced by the crews of several British raiders taking part in Monday night's operations over Germany," states the British Air Ministry News Service.

"Some of our aircraft, heavily laden with bombs, became coated in ice, and, when attacked by the ground defences, were unable, because of the additional weight, to climb out of danger until they had reached their targets and unloaded their bombs.

FIRES AT DIEPHOLZ

"Widespread low cloud further hampered the bombing in many parts of the operations area, and the success of a series of attacks on a large aircraft park at Diepholz, where bombs were seen to burst on the landing ground, was confirmed only by the lucky chance of another gap in the cloud a few minutes later, which enabled a following aircraft to see fires blazing in the target area.

"Damage to the air-frame factory at Gotha was similarly confirmed by a late arrival over the objective, whose crew reported that their bombs led to an increase in the intensity of a fire which was already burning.

"Weather conditions were more favourable to another raiding force which launched a midnight attack on the docks and wharves at Amsterdam. Hits were registered on wharves to the north-east of the city and on the south bank of the river. Explosions broke out among the docks, and the blaze of one great fire could be seen when the aircraft were some thirty miles away on their homeward journey.

LATE NEWS

NO PURCHASE TAX ON NEWSPAPERS

BRITISH CHANCELLOR'S ANNOUNCEMENT

Sir Kingsley Wood (British Chancellor of the Exchequer) agreed in the House of Commons last night to exempt newspapers from the Purchase Tax. Books, printed pamphlets, printed music, traders' account books and leaflets, and advertising material will also be exempt. In announcing his decision, the Chancellor said that he recognised that a free and wider-distributed Press was a vital factor, particularly to-day, in the dissemination of information and the maintenance of public morale.

BRITAIN AGAIN RAIDED

BOMBS IN MANY AREAS

German 'planes were active over Britain last night. Their presence was reported over the South-West, South-East, North-West, Midlands, Scotland and Wales.

High explosive bombs were dropped by a German 'plane on a North-East of Scotland town last night. There were no casualties, apart from a few people who were slightly injured by flying glass. One bomb hit a gas main, causing a fire, which was quickly extinguished.

Several bombs were dropped in another Midland district, where German 'planes persisted in their attack for several hours. Raiders came over in seven or eight waves. In one district a building was struck, houses were damaged, and a road was blocked by a burst gas main.

German sources added to air claims for yesterday the sinking of two 15,000-ton freighters during a widespread shipping attack.—(Associated Press.)

RAIDS ON GIBRALTAR

Gibraltar had two raids yesterday, one at 10 a.m. by a lone reconnaissance 'plane and another at 4.15 p.m. by a group which dropped bombs. A ship anchored in the military port caught fire, and flames from oil tanks leaped into the air, causing some alarm.

MALTA BOMBED

Two moonlight raids on Malta were made on Wednesday night, and a number of bombs, including incendiary bombs, were dropped.

HUNGARIAN MINISTER TO VISIT GERMANY

Count M. Teleki, Hungarian Minister of Agriculture, is to go to Germany next Sunday to meet the German Minister of Agriculture, Dr. Darre, according to Budapest Radio. They will discuss economic problems.—(Reuter.)

LUXEMBURG GOES

BERLIN, Wednesday.

The Constitution of Luxemburg has become null and void, the German head of the Civil Administration announces to-day, says the official German News Agency. In future, he said, official documents must not make use of the expressions "Grand Duchy" or "the Country of Luxemburg."

A.R.P. IN DUBLIN

FIRST AID POST HANDED OVER

SIR J. LUMSDEN'S TRIBUTE

THE High School, Harcourt street, Dublin, which is the First-Aid Post for the No. 4 Area in the A.R.P. Service for the City of Dublin, was officially handed over last night, in the presence of the Lord Mayor, the City Manager, members of the A.R.P. Committee of the Dublin Corporation, and other visitors.

Units of both men and women's sections of the St. John Ambulance Brigade paraded, and, addressing them, Sir John Lumsden, Commissioner, explained the arrangements that had been made by the Brigade. They were glad, he said, to feel that at last the first-aid posts were ready, as the members, all eager to help, were finding it difficult to carry on practices without halls, and it was now desirable that the training and preparation should take place at the stations in which they would have to work in an emergency.

The Brigade had a highly-trained personnel, and when those who had joined the auxiliary reserve had been trained with the ordinary members it was hoped that a really efficient service would be ready—the areas preserving a liaison with the Warden Service, and being ready to help adjoining areas, if necessary.

WOMEN'S WORK

Sir John paid high tribute to all ranks, and said that the women members had shown wonderful enthusiasm and aptitude—women to-day were just as necessary as men, and of equal value. It was remarkable what splendid, courageous spirit of service had been rendered in a variety of ways by women—as nurses, ambulance orderlies, motor drivers and administrators, and now they had to step into the first line.

He paid tribute to the members of the Pharmaceutical Society and the apothecaries who had offered to allow their establishments to be used as auxiliary first aid posts for treatment of minor casualties, supplying at their own expense, dressings, restoratives and equipment.

He also thanked the Governors of the High School, as well as the managers of the other schools for allowing their buildings to be utilised as first aid stations.

Mr. Sean Milroy, Chairman of the A.R.P. Committee of the Dublin Corporation, thanking Sir John Lumsden and the Brigade, said that there was a tremendous abnormal danger impending, and one which would require the united effort of every man and woman to meet it effectively. They all fervently prayed that the emergency would not arise, but the only way they could effectively deal with it should it come upon them was to be prepared.

PROGRESS

Mr. P. J. Hernon, City Manager, said that wonderful progress had been made by the Corporation First Aid Service, and they had there that night a fully equipped first aid post ready for any emergency. He thanked Sir John Lumsden and the Brigade for all that they had done, and said he wished that public attention could be focussed on the scheme, and people come to know where they could get information and advice dealing with first aid.

A demonstration of first aid was given by the members of the post.

Among those present were the Lord Mayor, Mrs. T. Clarke; Alderman Alfred Byrne, Councillor Mrs. T. Nix, Councillor Mrs. O'Shea Leamy, Mr. J. P. Healy, Chief Executive Officer A.R.P. Committee, Dublin Corporation; Mr. W. P. Blunden, Principal Officer A.R.P. Branch of the Ministry of Defence, representing Mr. S. Moylan, Parliamentary Secretary, Department of Defence; Colonel T. J. Gay, Mr. Setou Pringle, Dr. K. Reddin, Dr. A. McKay, Major Sean O'Sullivan, National Army; Assistant Commissioner O'Connor, St. John Ambulance Brigade.

ELEVEN STATIONS

There are 11 areas and stations—9 for the City of Dublin, 1 for Blackrock, and 1 for Dun Laoghaire. The St. John Ambulance Brigade is in complete control of these posts, and the personnel is as follows:—

General Control and Direction—The Commissioner St. John Ambulance Brigade and his staff.

Chief Executive Casualty Officer—Assistant Commissioner J. P. McNamara, Headquarters, at Castle street.

Command Officers—Northern Command, District Officer G. Belton; Lady District Officer, Miss E. Provis, Headquarters, Brigade Hall, Great Strand street.

Southern Command—Assistant Commissioner A. J. McWilliams; Lady District Officer, Miss G. Barrington, Headquarters, 14 Merrion square.

Eastern Command—Divisional Surgeon, Dr. J. F. Eustace; Lady District Officer, Miss L. Overend, Headquarters, St. Stephen's Schools, Northumberland road.

First-aid posts and officers in charge:—

No. 1 Area—National Schools, St. Peter's road, Phibsboro'. Divisional superintendent, G. Dukes; lady ambulance officer, Mrs. Furlong.

No. 2 Area—Girls' National Schools, Griffith avenue. Ambulance officer, F. O'Brien; lady ambulance officer, Miss K. Pearce.

No. 3 Area—Marlborough Street Infants' School. Divisional superintendent, F. Waterhouse; lady ambulance officer, Mrs. N. Spears.

No. 4 Area—High School, Harcourt street. Ambulance officer, R. Watters; lady divisional superintendent, Mrs. R. J. Rowlette.

No. 5 Area—St. Brigid's National School, Coombe. Ambulance officer, W. F. Jones; lady divisional superintendent, Miss L. Evans.

No. 6 Area—Technical Schools, Rathmines. Divisional superintendent, T. Crowley; lady divisional superintendent, Mrs. M. Thompson.

No. 7 Area—St. Stephen's School, Northumberland road. Divisional superintendent, P. J. Cassidy; lady divisional superintendent, Miss F. M. Burroughs.

No. 10 Area—Clareville Road National Schools, Harold's Cross. Ambulance officer, H. McCamley; lady ambulance officer, Miss M. Eager.

Mr. John Cudahy, United States Ambassador to Brussels, who was called home by President Roosevelt, has arrived in the Dixie Clipper. He said that he was under instructions "not to talk at this time."

He added that his statements were so distorted by most of the London papers that he could not even recognise them.

Mr. Cudahy, in London recently, gave an interview, in which he was reported to have said that King Leopold's decision to surrender would be applauded when the truth was known, and that the Allies were informed of it three days in advance.

BISTRO FANCIED FOR FLEMING MEMORIAL

Maddenstown May Capture the Last Two Races

THE Fleming Memorial Steeplechase is the chief event on the second day's card, and, though only six horses have been declared for it, it has an open appearance.

Tote double on third and fifth races.

Jackbook, who won at the recent Mallow meeting, has to shoulder a 7lb. penalty, and may not beat the consistent Bistro.

The Welter Plate may be won by Solve, and Trident looks to hold a good chance in the Annstown Plate. Selections:—

THE TETRARCH BREED

Royal Minstrel's Successes on the Course and at Stud

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

LONDON, Tuesday Night.

THE death of Royal Minstrel lessens the number of sires of the Tetrarch breed that are available in this country. He was fifteen years old, and was foaled in the season before Mr. Jinks. If Mr. Jinks was the best son of Tetratema that has raced in England, then the other could be classed as the second best.

Royal Minstrel, who was bred by the late Mr. J. J. Maher, and was out of his well-known mare, Harpsichord, the dam of several other good winners, was sold at Doncaster to the late Captain George Gough, an Irish Guardsman, who was never keenly interested in racing. Something moved him that Doncaster, and he bought, on Captain Boyd-Rochfort's judgment, and left him to train, two yearling.

Those were his only adventures in bloodstock. One was of little account, but the other was Royal Minstrel. I shall never forget the day the colt made his first appearance in the paddock at Newmarket, which was just before the race for the Craven Stakes.

A Massive Three-year-old

His great size and power impressed everyone, for he was a most massive three-year-old, and he walked as if the paddock belonged to him alone, and as if no base quadrupeds should be allowed in.

In the race he was devastating, for he fairly ate up the Rowley Mile. Coming into the dip he was away out by himself on the far side, and he won by six lengths, which might have been twenty so much had he in hand of the others. Captain Gough did not see him run. As a matter of fact, he had gone on a shooting expedition in Central Africa.

The colt did not quite fulfil his Craven Stakes promise in the Two Thousand Guineas, for, though he put up a very stylish performance, he was run out of it and beaten a head by a much inferior horse, Flamingo, who may have been just the better stayer.

Well-fancied for Derby

Royal Minstrel was well fancied for the Derby, and there was some conjecture in the week before the race about the whereabouts of his owner, from whom his trainer had heard nothing for a long time. It was suggested that he might have been killed, and even eaten by a lion, and visions of the embarrassing situation if the horse won the Derby, and it was found later that his owner was dead before the race was conjured up by imaginative people.

But Captain Gough was very much alive, and, anyhow, Royal Minstrel did not win that break-neck Derby, in which Flamingo and Sunny Trace were at each other's throats until they crack all but one of the rest before they cracked themselves, and the one sound stayer in the field, Felstead, came and beat them all.

Royal Minstrel did not show his real excellence until he was four years old, when he stormed away with the Victoria Cup at Hurst Park. Captain Gough was back in England then, and that was the only race he ever saw him win. Indeed, I think it was the first time he saw him since Doncaster.

Decision to Sell

When the trophy attached to the prize was presented to him after the race, he tucked it under his arm and went home. Some time after Captain Boyd-Rochfort happened to meet him accidentally in a London club, when he came over to his table and announced that he would sell Royal Minstrel for £15,000 or guineas, I forget which.

This was very perturbing, indeed, to the trainer, as he fancied the colt's chance a good deal for the Eclipse, for which he was training him. It was not agreeable to think that the horse might be sold and go to another stable before he won the Eclipse, for the owner was determined to sell at once.

However, he cabled to Mr. John Hay Whitney, and Mr. Whitney responded at once that he would take the horse at the named price. Very soon afterwards Royal Minstrel won the Eclipse, so his new owner had approximately two-thirds of the purchase money returned to him.

Fairway Defeated

That was a brilliant Eclipse, for one of the horses that Royal Minstrel beat was Fairway, who had won it the year before, and was recorded when he went to Sandown as easily the best four-year-old in England.

It has been said above that if Mr. Jinks was the best son of Tetratema on a racecourse, Royal Minstrel was the second best. It is a debatable point which was the better.

Mr. Jinks Compared

Mr. Jinks won the 2,000 Guineas in which the other was just beaten, and goes down as a classic winner, but it is doubtful whether Mr. Jinks would ever have beaten Fairway at Sandown as comfortably as Royal Minstrel. Mr. Jinks was pretty well finished when he had gone a fast mile, but Royal Minstrel ran through in the Eclipse over a quarter of a mile more.

When he had finished his racing career, Mr. Whitney took Royal Minstrel to his stud in the United States, and he was an immediate success. He got batches of brilliantly speedy two-year-olds, but I do not think, speaking from memory, that all of them trained on. However, I have no definite data on the subject. A few years ago he was sent back to Newmarket, and has been standing at Heath Lodge at 149 sovs.

GALTEE MORE.

CLOSE FINISHES

Interesting Sport on Opening Day at Tramore

THE annual four-day meeting at Tramore had a successful send off yesterday when, though fields in some instances were on the small side, close finishes afforded plenty of interest for the big crowd. It so happened that the most exciting race of the day was the Dungarvan Steeplechase, which was last on the card. Of the eight runners only four completed the course, and just as Playaway seemed to have got the measure of the joint favourite, Royal Gold, she fell at the last fence, leaving Mr. F. Rogers's gelding to score easily from Irish Blarney.

Flashing Stream and Barrymore, the joint favourites in a three-horse race for the Directors' Plate, kept close company for most of the way, and with a mile remaining to be covered it looked as if Barrymore had shot his bolt. Coming up the hill to the winning post he again began to get on terms, and close home drew out to win by a clear length, Ivy of Rheims and Grantstown, the only runners for the Visitors' Steeplechase, also provided an interesting contest. Ivy of Rheims, who made the running for two and a half miles, failed to stick it out and was beaten by three-parts of a length.

Mrs. A. H. Watt, a well-known and popular figure in hunting and racing circles in the South, won the Moderate Plate with Tontonvilla, a gelding, by Tonton, who had run prominently in the race won by Avena at the Curragh in June. The winner is trained by W. T. O'Grady, the steeplechase jockey, who has recently taken out a trainer's licence. Johnny Brown once more refused to start.

Mr. H. G. Wellesley followed up his Phœnix Park training successes by saddling Mr. F. S. Myerscough's Your Worship to win the Lismore Plate, but C. Smirke had to ride his strongest to shake off the attentions of Inspiration and Swing Fro, the latter of whom lost a lot of ground through stumbling about two furlongs from home. The winner is a half-brother to His Reverence.

The Maddenstown Lodge stable had a second score when Mrs. E. McGrath's Durbar, ridden by Mr. E. Parkinson, landed the long odds laid on him for the Graun Plate. Details:—

SPORTING FLIER IN FORM AGAIN

FIVE FAVOURITES WIN AT HAROLD'S CROSS

Backers of favourites again had the better of matters last night at Harold's Cross Park, as five first-choices scored. Sporting Flier regained winning form by taking the Leinster Plate. He led all the way, and his time, 30.50 secs., was the fastest of the night. Robert's Future, the winner of the Munster Plate, was fully extended by High Hopes, and it was only half-way down the straight that he came through to win by three-parts of a length. George's Warrior readily landed the odds in the Metropolitan Hurdle. Details:—

ULSTER PLATE—Messrs. Maguire and Gill's SOARING LOW (6), 2 to 1; MEADOW A (2), 4 to 1, 2; STOP PRESS EDITION (4), 5 to 1, 3. Also ran—Cruise's Ford (1), 6 to 1; Dashing Dasher (5), 7 to 4; Speed to Burn (3), 5 to 1. 2l.; 4l. 31.36 secs.

Seeded Players Have Hard Matches in Men's Singles

AT such an early stage of the week, it was interesting and unusual to see the leading players in the men's singles championship of County Wicklow being pressed to win their matches at Bray yesterday. The holder, R. F. Egan, lost the second set to H. H. Dove; A. E. Fannin had to go to a third set against J. J. McArdle, while E. H. Porter had a 'vantage first set against H. P. Morris. Dove went out for his shots in courageous fashion against Egan, and was never afraid to come to the net, where he hit some excellent drive volleys. McArdle found Fannin inclined to over-drive in the second set, and took advantage of this lapse by some consistent driving on his own account, but the pace proved far too much for him in the third set. Still, this match should give the promising young Dundalk player great encouragement.

The Norwood Club has a likely youngster in H. P. Morris, who fought game for game with Porter in the first set, but could not produce the passing shots to beat the latter's net attack subsequently.

The surprise of the day in the men's singles, however, was W. A. Manahan's victory over P. Read. Despite his somewhat cramped style, Manahan, who plays for University College, has been having a successful season, but he cannot show as impressive a record as Read's, so the latter was expected to win. From the base-line, there was nothing between them, but Manahan was far the more enterprising in his advances to the net, and, coming in at unexpected moments, he brought off some lovely low volleys. This was particularly the case in the last set, in which he fairly swept his opponent off the court in a grand finish.

Another capital performance was that of F. H. Ballagh, the Mount Temple champion, in defeating B. J. Murphy in straight sets. The fast courts suit Ballagh perfectly, his ground shots, hit at the earliest moment and carrying great pace, penetrating Murphy's defence time and again. As a general rule, Ballagh off-sets his winners by a larger number of errors, but he was quite consistent on this occasion, and well deserved his good win.

There were no upsets or especially exciting matches in the women's singles, three of the seeded players advancing to the third round. Miss F. Conan put up a good battle against Miss E. Lombard after losing the first set to love, while Miss S. Curley fought out two close sets with Miss P. Conway before going down. Results:—

SOUTH OF IRELAND SURPRISES

REMARKABLE RECOVERY BY TORRENS

In the second round of the South of Ireland Championship at Lahinch yesterday some fancied aspirants went out. Kirwan, a well-known Milltown player, had an easy win over Hannan, the Limerick man, and McKiernan beat Robertson, who was not quite as good on the greens as on Monday. Maloney, of Ennis, had McConkey fighting hard to the fourteenth; then experience told. Torrens was lucky to beat O'Connor. Off the line from the tees, he found plenty of trouble, and stood four down going to the fifteenth. A perfect 4 there won a hole back for him. O'Connor missed a two-foot putt at the sixteenth, duffed his drive to the seventeenth, and lost the hole to a 6. Torrens won the eighteenth to square, and won the match at the twentieth. Lenihan, M. O'Loughlin and Murray had easy wins.

In the third round English beat Kirwan, who won the first and second. English, however, was one up playing the sixteenth, but he missed an easy putt to lose it. Kirwan, however, missed his chance at the seventeenth. On in two, with his opponent off the green, he had three putts, and could only get a half. Again at the eighteenth he missed from two feet to keep the match alive. McConkey and Slattery had easy wins, but Burke had to produce his best to beat the long-hitting Galway man, M. Garahy. Paul Murray completely subdued the local man, Michael O'Loughlin. Playing par golf, the old Rugby international never left the issue in doubt.

SECOND ROUND.

C. F. Myerscough (Milltown) beat R. Counihan (Kilrush)—4 and 3.
D. Corboy (Limerick) beat P. A. Bolger (Enniscorthy)—1 up.
J. A. English (Headfort) beat B. J. Flaherty (Galway)—4 and 3.
D. V. Kirwan (Milltown) beat F. J. Hannan (Limerick)—5 and 4.
D. F. O'Loughlin beat T. P. Ryan (Hermitage)—4 and 2.
R. McConkey (Royal Dublin) beat P. Maloney (Ennis)—3 and 2.
B. Slattery (Lahinch) beat J. J. O'Hanlon (New Ross)—2 up.
B. F. McKiernan (Strandhill) beat C. W. Robertson (Portmarnock)—4 and 3.
M. Garrahy (Galway) w.o., T. O'Donnell (Limerick) scr.
J. Burke (Lahinch) beat P. Kiely (Muskerry)—4 and 2.
D. Torrens (Ennis) beat T. G. O'Connor (Rosslare) at 20th.
M. McMahon (Kilrush) beat G. Casey (Lahinch)—5 and 4.
T. Lenihan (Galway) beat Dr. Murphy (Ennis)—5 and 4.
M. Earner (Galway) beat R. Nolan (Castletroy)—3 and 2.
M. O'Loughlin (Lahinch) beat W. S. Kearney (Rossiare)—2 and 1.
P. Murray (Milltown) beat P. Mohan (Lahinch)—5 and 4.

THIRD ROUND.

Myerscough beat Corboy—1 up.
English beat Kirwan—1 up.
McConkey beat O'Loughlin—5 and 4.
Slattery beat McKiernan—2 and 1.
Burke beat McGarry—2 up.
Torrens beat McMahon—2 and 1.
Lenihan beat Earner—2 and 1.
Murray beat O'Loughlin—4 and 2.

DUBLIN WIN LADIES' SQUADRON TITLE

SIX-NIL VICTORY FOR CLONTARF

The outstanding item in a good programme arranged for the Dublin S.C. gala at Blackrock Baths last night was the first round tie in the Leinster Senior Cup, in which the holders, Clontarf, were opposed by Pembroke, who held Clontarf to a goal victory last week in the Senior League test. Although the teams were unchanged, last night's encounter was very one-sided. Clontarf winning easily. In combination and swimming they were clearly superior, but the Pembroke forwards, with few opportunities, shot splendidly, and O'Grady made some brilliant saves from short and medium range. The holders meet Sandycove in the semi-final at Blackrock on Friday.

The ladies' squadron championship over 200 metres was evenly fought for three-quarters of the distance between Pembroke and Dublin. Over the last leg, however, Miss Deane went away to win easily by six yards. W. Ashmore won the men's 50 metres open handicap in a keen finish.

An excellent display of diving by Miss D. Dermody (Pembroke) and E. Heron (Sandycove), and an interesting exhibition of life-saving by the members of the Dublin Club were also given. Details:—

Ladies' Squadron Championship of Leinster (200 metres)—Dublin (Misses C. O'Farrell, S. O'Neill, L. Quinn and G. Deane), 1; Pembroke (holders), 2. Four teams competed. Six yards; ten yards. Time—2 mins. 28 secs.

50 Metres Men's Handicap—Final—W. D. Ashmore, Dublin University (2), 1; J. Cummins, Sandycove (7), 2; J. Pearson, Pembroke (4), 3. A yard; a touch. Time—29 4-5 secs.

WATER POLO

CLONTARF ............ 6 PEMBROKE ......... 0

In a brisk opening a misunderstanding between the Clontarf backs let in McCabe, but O'Grady saved brilliantly. Clontarf immediately raided and McCloskey shot over. Good combination by the holders left Lavery in position, and he shot a fine goal, high up in the left corner. O'Grady again saved brilliantly before Lavery worked out an opening for Grier to put Clontarf two up. The Pembroke forwards were dangerous, but O'Grady was invincible.

In the second half Case, Grier and McCloskey combined smartly for the last-named to put Clontarf three up. McCloskey next made an opening for Dowds, who shot the fourth. Clontarf were easily the better, and Maguire took advantage of a bad pass to send in Dowds to get the fifth, while McCloskey added the sixth in smart style.

Clontarf—K. O'Grady; C. P. Grier (capt.), W. L. Maguire; R. N. Case; P. J. Lavery, E. McCloskey and F. Dowds.

Pembroke—H. G. Ellerker; P. Murphy and G. I. McCabe; L. Reynolds; J. Nairn, M. D. Fletcher (capt.) and D. Rudd.

Referee—Mr. Cecil Fagan.

PEAKE MEMORIAL SALVER WON BY PANSY

There were sixteen starters for the third tie of the E. G. Peake Memorial Salver, of which Pansy was first away and led throughout. There were frequent changes of position among the remainder owing to the variable nature of the wind. The order of finishing was:—1, Pansy; 2, Saryalls; 3, Jacqueline; 4, Mollie; 5, Phyllis; 6, Vega; 7, Coquette; 8, Alfa; 9, Shindilla; 10, Mary Kate; 11, Vela 12, Glanora; 13, Nandor; 14, Sprite. Blue Bird and Nesta retired. By winning the above tie Pansy holds the salver for the coming year.

THE GRAFTON STREET HOLD-UP

"BEWILDERED" SPECTATORS

Although a considerable number of people heard the crash of breaking glass and the commotion in the shop, no attempt was made by anyone to assist in the apprehension of the would-be raider of Messrs. Kapp and Peterson's on Saturday.

While this was commented on in Dublin yesterday, the explanation given was that the people who were outside the shop were so bewildered that they did not think of helping.

This is the opinion, at any rate, of Mr. Paul McKay, manager of the shop. "People did not seem to realise what was happening, apparently thinking that a private argument was in progress," he said to an Irish Times reporter yesterday. "The crowd did not actually enter the shop until the man had left; but, attracted by the sound of breaking glass, crowded round the entrance."

As the man was leaving, Mr. McKay shouted to the crowd to stop him, but they seemed to be too bewildered to be of any assistance.

"The entire episode occupied about five minutes, and, only for the fact that I was afraid to leave the shop, I feel sure that I could have caught him," said Mr. McKay. "A young man who saw the man leave the shop said that he ran up College Green; but other reports say that he went along Grafton street. A possible explanation of this difference in opinion is that he went up College Green, Trinity street and round into Grafton street, passing the shop for the second time."

Mr. McKay's one thought throughout the episode was for the gun, which afterwards was discovered to be a toy.

"On two occasions he managed to push the weapon into my chest, and I expected to receive the contents any minute," he said.

This is Mr. McKay's first experience of a "hold-up" in twenty-seven years as manager of Messrs. Kapp and Peterson's, and all day yesterday he was kept busy answering questions about his experience. Apart from feeling some excitement at the time of the episode, he is in excellent health, and is feeling no ill-effects.

Investigations continued throughout the day.

CORK JAIL INCIDENT

CHARGE AGAINST TWO MEN

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Tuesday

Arising out of the recent incident outside Cork Jail, when a party of men, apparently engaged in attempting to tunnel into the jail, were surprised and shots were fired, one man being fatally wounded, another wounded and two arrested.

Cornelius Byrd, 13 St. Mary's place, Gurranebraher, and Denis J. O'Sullivan, 1 Coburg street, Cork, were brought up at a special sitting of the Cork District Court.

The charge preferred against them was that, on the 2nd and 3rd of August, 1940, at Castlewhite, Western road, Co. Cork, they attempted, or were concerned in an attempt, to prevent or obstruct by force of arms or other violent means the exercise or performance by certain officers or employés of the State of their function, powers or duties—to wit, to detain in custody certain persons, then detained under the Offences against the State Act, 1939, contrary to the provisions of the said Act.

A detective sergeant deposed that he arrested both the defendants about 3.40 p.m. on August 3 at Castlewhite, Western road, under the powers conferred on him under Section 30 of the Offences against the State Act, 1939. He had them conveyed to Union Quay Station, where they were detained, and later removed to the Bridewell. On August 5 an order was made detaining both the defendants for a further period of eight days. On that date witness charged each of the accused men separately.

Witness cautioned them that they were not obliged to say anything. Witness said that he was still pursuing enquiries, and asked for a remand in custody for a period of eight days or sooner.

The defendants did not cross-examine.

District Justice D. B. Sullivan granted the remand in custody.

DUBLIN DISTRICT MILK BOARD

THE NOMINEES

The followng are the nominees for the Dublin District Milk Board elections, which will be held from August 19th until the poll closes at 12 noon on August 31st:—

Wholesale Members—Messrs. John Craigie, John Cavey, and Gerald McInerney have been nominated for the three seats allotted to the wholesale side of the business. The number of voters is 30.

On the production side, the following fourteen candidates have been nominated for seven seats:—Senator C. M. Byrne, Messrs. John J. Devereux, Patrick Frayne, Joseph A. Hatch, John G. Hill, Colm Lawless, Thomas Long, John J. McCarthy, Colonel Reilly, James Tallon, John V. Tyner, and Norman C. Walker. The number of voters is 1,598.

The following six nominations have been recorded for the three retailer seats:—John Clarke, Denis Cullen, Luke Donegan, Patrick Joseph Gaffney, John Hogan, and Cornelius Murphy. The number of voters is 1,772.

Counting of the votes will begin immediately after the close of the poll on August 31st.

WE DON'T CLAIM A CURE FOR RHEUMATISM—

but we've had some wonderful results

IF we said we could cure every case of rheumatism we'd be making a claim that any doctor would refute instantly. Every rheumatic person has his own type of this affliction. The rheumatism you've got is different from other people's. So we tell you quite frankly that we won't promise you a definite cure. What we will promise you, in nine cases out of ten, is relief — with a chance of being cured at the end of it.

We say this in spite of the hundreds of testimonials we've got from people who tell us they have actually been cured, because we'd rather have you pleasantly surprised with the results you do achieve than have you disappointed because you can't run about like a two-year-old after a couple of days.

As you know yourself, rheumatism is caused by poisons that have got into your blood and left a deposit in your joints and muscles. The first thing to do is to sweep out these deposits from the spots where they lurk, and this is what a daily pinch of Kruschen sets out to do. Start taking a little Kruschen every day — start to-morrow. Don't expect startling results at first (although you may get them) but keep it up, persevere. It took you years to get rheumatism and you won't get rid of it in a day. But you'll be doing your darned old rheumatism the worst turn you ever did it the day you start Kruschen. Take it in at least half a tumblerful of water. A bottle of Kruschen costs you only 1/9 from all Chemists.
